MAYOR-ELECT CLAUDE L. HARRISON

Harrison Will Serve For One Term Only

Sound City Finances New Mayor's Object

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

Claude L. Harrison, elected as Victoria's new mayor by a record turnout of voters Thursday, said today he has no intention of seeking more than one term as the city's chief magistrate.

He said he ran for the two-year term of office "simply to get the city back on a sound foundation."

First matters to receive his attention, he said, will be the workings of the city manager system, department heads at City Hall, his proposed citizens' forum and the Memorial Arena.

Harrison won the mayoralty, to succeed retiring Mayor Percy George with 3,828 votes out of the record 10,405 cast. Second in the polling was Dr. J. D. Hunter with 3,079, third M. Aubery Kent with 2,683 and fourth Harry Haigh with 748.

It was the keenest mayoralty race Victorians have had for 20 years.

The vote total of 10,405 compared with 9,732 in the 1949 mayoralty race. The actual vote was a new record, but the percentage of eligible voters who marked ballots was 53.04 per cent, down slightly from the 53.21 per cent of 1949.

While choosing a newcomer to civic politics as mayor, the voters endorsed four of the sitting aldermen for fresh terms, including the full slate offered by the Non-Partisan League for these and other offices.

Only upset in the aldermanic field was the defeat of Ald. Millard Mooney. Brent Murdoch was one of two newcomers to win, placing third as an independent.

Neck-And-Neck Contest

Four incumbents held their posts with Ald. Waldo Skillings, N.P.L., heading the polls, followed closely by Ald. Margaret Christie, N.P.L., Ald. Percy Scurrah, N.P.L., and Ald. William Pinfold, N.P.L. were neck and neck most of the night with Pinfold taking last spot, 153 votes ahead of Mooney.

Non-Partisan League had success with all but the mayoral candidate. To newcomer William J. Hamilton, N.P.L., went the only landslide vote of the night. He had 7,914 votes for the one seat on police commission against Charles de Lure's 1,850.

J. Donald Smith, another N.P.L. candidate, took a one-year seat on council, with 5,332 votes against William H. Williams' 4,266.

Interviewed at his home today Mayor-Elect Harrison, in between answering telephone congratulations from near and far, said his program would be carried out item by item.

"You can't do everything at once," he laughed. "I feel we will get complete co-operation on city council."

Of the city manager system he said:

"We've certainly got to try the scheme out properly, but they've got to show me or out it goes. That's absolute. If it doesn't work I will bring it up before the people at the first opportunity."

Wants City's Men On Job

On department heads: "We will find if they are thoroughly competent. If so, we will save money on experts. Let our own people do the work. Department heads are responsible to the manager. Things must be done right . . . there'll be no pussyfooting, no humbug."

There will be a study of employees' work. Competent employees will have nothing to fear, he said.

"There's going to be no cutting of staff. . . . I'm just going to make sure the people get value for their money."

On the arena: "We must find out if it is safe. Prime purpose is to see that there is not going to be a calamity there. It's only common sense to find out if it's safe. We must know.

"Within a month of taking office I will hold the first Citizens' Forum in Lougheed's on Douglas Street, where I had my last election meeting," said Harrison.

In his post-election statement Thursday night, Harrison paid tribute to his three opponents in the mayoralty race and said he appreciated the courtesy and kindly feeling which existed.

To Ald. Margaret Christie goes the honor again of being the only woman on council. Two other feminine contenders were unsuccessful.

A veteran campaigner, Mrs. Christie was unable to come to the fire hall counting room Thursday night as she spent most of the evening at the hospital with a seriously ill friend. She was the only Non-Partisan League candidate to get pre-election bouquets both from Harrison and Murdoch, who urged voters to give her support.

Ald. Millard Mooney may have lost out in the shuffle but he says he's game to try again.

"It was my maiden voyage into politics and I'll admit I didn't have my usual appetite the last few days," commented J. Donald Smith.

Forces Benefit Greatly

Trades Pay Goes Up; Retroactive

OTTAWA, Dec. 14 (CP)—A broad series of pay, salary and allowance increases for Canada's armed forces, the civil service and the R.C.M.P. was announced in the Commons today by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

The raises, ranging from about 14 per cent, all are retroactive to Dec. 1.

The last general adjustment in rates of pay for government employees was a year ago.

The general average effect of the increase will be to add between eight and nine per cent to the governments payroll.

The armed service increases include substantial boosts in trades pay for qualified warrant officers, non-commissioned officers and men. In addition, fully-trained infantrymen and other trained combat soldiers now will draw a specialist's pay of $6 a month.

LOWER RANKS

For the lowest ranks—privates, seamen and aircraftmen—the new scales provide monthly increases in basic pay of $8 and in subsistence allowance of $4. These range up to $13 basic and $7 subsistence for the highest non-commissioned rank.

For officers, there are increases ranging from $8 a month to $95 in basic pay, depending on rank, and from $4 to $30 for subsistence. The outfit allowance for newly-commissioned officers jumps to $375 from $250.

Under the new rates a private fully trained will receive $152 monthly, including subsistence allowance, compared with $140; a sergeant $201, compared with $186; a lieutenant $299, compared with $274; a major $448, compared with $410, and a colonel $694, compared with $636. Equivalent ranks in the air force and navy will receive similar pay.

For the R.C.M.P., the increases range from $15 a month for third-class constables, who have completed training, to $30 for sergeants and staff sergeants.

Increases for commissioned R.C.M.P. officers range from $35 for sub-inspectors to $66 in the rank for deputy commissioner.

The annual pay of a third-class constable after completion of training goes up to $2,220 from $2,040 for an annual raise of $180.

EXCEPTIONS

Dealing with the civil service, St. Laurent said the increases go to all classes with the following exceptions:

1. The salaries of civil servants in the higher brackets will be reviewed individually.

2. Where it is clear that current civil service salary rates already are closely in line with rates being paid by good private employers, the civil service commission will consider whether and to what extent it would be proper to recommend specific increases.

3. Where the salaries paid in any class have been adjusted since last December, a lesser increase than that applied generally will be authorized.

4. The proposed increases will apply only to classified employees. The rates of pay of prevailing rates employees—those paid by the hour—are governed by the prevailing rates in similar private employment.

JUDGE LAUDS MAYOR-ELECT

Mr. Justice Macfarlane in Supreme Court Chambers today personally congratulated Mayor-elect Claude L. Harrison for his victory at the polls Thursday.

Judge Macfarlane said he felt Mayor-elect Harrison was a good man for the job and was sure his long experience at the bar and in public matters would be an advantage to the city of Victoria.

Harrison expressed his thanks and said he would do his utmost to do a good job for the citizens and for the city.

Canadians Tied Up To Jewel Hauls

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (CP).—An international gang of 16 jewel thieves, most of them Canadians, is reported on the verge of capture.

A New York police source, who predicted imminent arrests, said Thursday night that most of the gang now are in Canada. Ten were reported in Toronto, one in Vancouver, two already are in prison and another was expected to be taken into custody shortly.

A high-rankiug police official, who asked that his name not be used, said the expected arrests would solve a series of hotel and apartment burguaries here in which more than $1,000,000 worth of gems has been stolen in the last 18 months.

(In Toronto, the Globe and Mail reported in a copyright story that all members of the gang are Canadians. The newspaper estimated the gang's loot from robberies both in Canada and the United States at more than $3,000,000, and said most of it had been taken to the Toronto area for sale to known "fences."

(Toronto police had no comment, either on the Globe and Mail story or on the New York report.)

4 Youths Use Hacksaw To Escape Okalla

VANCOUVER, Dec. 14 (CP). Four young prisoners cut their way through thick prison bars with a hacksaw to escape from the young offenders unit at Oakalla prison farm early today.

Prison officials immediately began an investigation to ascertain source of the hacksaw blade.

The escape was discovered shortly before 5 a.m., but it was three hours before the alarm was spread to police throughout the lower mainland.

Six or seven youths, housed in the same unit with the escapees, remained in their beds while the quartet fled.

It is the first escape from the closed Borstal at Oakalla since the unit was opened last February, although several youths have run away from open playing fields.

J. W. Lane, chief custodian, said that the escape was discovered during a routine check of the prison shortly before 5 a.m.

Nine Feared Dead

HAIFA, Israel, Dec. 14 (Reuters)—Nine persons were feared drowned when the 7,000-ton Turkish freighter Gudju Marman sank in Haifa Bay today. Twenty of the crew of 29 swam ashore.

Oil Pipe Line Franchise For Trans-Mt. Co.

OTTAWA, Dec. 14 (CP) — The Board of Transport Commissioners today awarded Trans-Mountain Oil Pipe Line Company the franchise for a line to carry oil from Alberta to the Pacific Coast.

The $82,000,000 pipe line will run from Edmonton to Vancouver by way of the Yellowhead Pass in the northern Rockies, following an all-Canadian route.

Trans-Mountain was one of five companies that asked the board for permission to pump oil from Alberta to Vancouver. Three withdrew, and the only remaining applicant company was the Champion Pipe Line Corporation.

NATIVE SON WILL BE VICTORIA MAYOR

'Man In The Blue Cape' Colorful Character

Victorians chose as their mayor Thursday a rugged individualist, an outdoorsman, a staunch conservationist and a sharp legal mind.

Claude L. Harrison is known to most citizens as the colorful city prosecutor who morning after morning through 40 years placed before the magistrates the misdeeds and shortcomings of those whose misfortune was to run afoul of the law.

But the "man with the blue cape"—he never wears the usual type of overcoat—is known to his intimates as a deeply human character, steeped in nature lore and Vancouver Island's history, always with a new project of some kind in mind, whether it be saving trees or looking for gold mines.

His blue cape, incidentally, was much in evidence during the election count Thursday night as he traveled from place to place.

FROM PIONEER STOCK

Sixty-five-year-old "C.L.H." is Victoria born of pioneer stock. His father was Judge Eli Harrison, a judge of the county court who held office in Cariboo, Nanaimo and Victoria.

It was natural that as a young man he turned to law, being articled to H. B. Robertson, now a justice of the Court of Appeal.

But he never let the law consume all of his time. He arranged his affairs so that he could go into the woods, often by himself, and study nature in the raw.

He has tramped most of Vancouver Island, learning about Indians, animals, trees, plants and rocks. An amateur prospector, he taught himself rudiments of geology.

HUNTS WITHOUT GUN

Twice he has crossed the Island alone, traveling through the forests, once taking 15 days for the trip. A mountain climber of repute, he formerly headed the local section of the Alpine Club and has climbed some of the toughest of the Rocky Mountains.

He has learned how to track deer, wolves, bear and cougar, but he never hunts animals with a gun. On a reservation he has at Sooke the deer are so tame they will eat out of your hand. As a woodsman he knows the edible and inedible fungi and roots, and could live in the woods for weeks with few provisions.

SQUIRE OF MALAHAT

In recent years his chief interest has been his broad acres on the Malahat, which have given him the title "The Squire of the Malahat."

He took over the old McCurdy home which stands on a high point overlooking the broad sweep of Saanich Arm, and has made it a resting place for many of the historical objects he has collected over many years.

His ability as a bricklayer, carpenter, plumber and electrician has enabled him to develop his scenic area in his leisure hours. His pride is a room fixed up as a replica of one of the old-time Yukon bars, complete with genuine relics from some of the actual bars that existed in Victoria.

He designed and built a fireplace guaranteed not to smoke.

Often he would appear in police court with a pottery flower in his buttonhole. He had made it himself. He makes pottery cups, teacups, figurines and vases with a secret water-resistant alloy.

He has a self-taught method of locating well water by studying the vegetation, and surprised helpers when he dug a well on his Malahat property in a spot they though most unlikely to yield water.

Short (about 5'7"), chunky and white-haired, Harrison has the reputation of a merciless cross-examiner, acquired through his years of courtroom experience.

But he is equally known as a humanitarian who would go out of his way to assist an unfortunate person who, through ignorance, became embroiled with the law.

In his new position as chief magistrate he will bring a fresh outlook to city hall.—M.L.

U.S. Moots 3 Neutral Nations For Inspection

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP). The United States has told three countries—Sweden, Norway and Switzerland—that they may be proposed as members of "non-belligerent" ispection teams in event of an armistice in Korea.

The proposed teams would maintain a check on whether the Communists and United Nations forces were abiding by armistice terms.

The approach to the three nations was made through their ambassadors here Thursday by John D. Hickerson, assistant secretary of state for United Nations affairs.

Hickerson is reported to have said that the U.S. government does not believe that any United Nations member could be considered as neutral in the Korean conflict but that many members without troops in Korea were clearly "non-belligerent."

Hickerson, it was learned, told the ambassadors the United States would like to know whether their governments had any objections to participation in an inspection commission.

They were told that in principle the United Nations Korean command probably could accept the armistice inspection idea.

The Communists have referred to this idea as inspection by "neutral" teams; the United Nations, as Hickerson explained it to the envoys, calls for "non-belligerent" teams.

Canadian Army Man On Trial

By BILL BOSS

SEOUL, Dec. 14 (CP).—A 30-minute shooting spree allegedly by a Canadian soldier termed "out of his senses" was described at his court martial today.

Spr. John Murray Steeves, of Moncton and Regina, with the Royal Canadian Engineers, is charged with the murder of a South Korean civilian last Sept. 17 in the village of Hwang Bang, southwest of Yonc Hon. The Korean, Shin Yong Dok, 41, died of a bullet through the neck and two other Koreans were wounded.

Six witnesses were heard today, opening day of the court martial. One was Shin's daughter.

'WOMAN OF THE YEAR'

Maggie Wins Voting

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP)—Women's editors of A.P. newspapers have chosen one of their own countrywomen as "Woman of the Year" for 1951.

She is Marguerite Higgins, plucky and pretty foreign correspondent for the New York Herald Tribune, whose coverage of the Korean war brought her both national headlines and a Pulitzer Prize.

In the poll runner-up for the title of outstanding woman of the year was Princess Elizabeth, whose recent Canadian and American tour made miles of headlines.

Tops in the field of sports is Maureen Connolly, 16-year-old winner of the National Women's Tennis Championship.

In literature, the vote goes to Rachel Carson, author of the best-selling "The Sea Around Us."

Others named were:

Judy Garland, theatre; Dr. F. Sabine, science; Anna Rosenberg, public affairs; Talullah Bankhead, radio; Dorothy Kirsten, opera, and Judy Holliday, movies.

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

It is with us again, the Christmas concert season, and for all its professions of joy and peace on earth, I am gently sad. The two young artists in our house are in the same production. As they discuss each other's performances there seems little hope for cultural development.

The climate is too cold. Artistic expression must bloom, particularly in the Christmas concert season, but it will be a growth of quick flowering that soon withers—an Arctic plant that springs into blossom under the sunshine hopes of the performer, and falls under the frosty criticism of the rival.

Stott

"Lookit," says one, "I'm gonna show you what I do," and she goes through her simple little routine and sings her song. Somehow it looks good to uncritical parental eyes and sounds sweet to sympathetic ears.

"Hah!" says the other performer.

He pauses dramatically, turns ungraciously to the first entertainer, and says, "Now shut up. I'm gonna do my piece." He does. And again it seems satisfactory to fond and probably foolish parents.

"Hah!" says the other artist.

There isn't much you can do about that "Hah." You can reprimand a child for telling another to shut up. That's impolite. But "Hah," that's just criticism, and you can't raise any logical objection to it.

Professional Jealousy?

Now it might be professional jealousy putting icy scorn into that simple ejaculation. But there's nothing professional about the performers. And you'd think they'd at least have some appreciation for the other's costume, after the time that has gone into them in the last few evenings. But no. All you get is "Hah."

Even when you grow indignant and shout at one or the other to stop belittlin' you can't provoke an encouraging response.

It makes you think that the atmosphere in your own home may reflect the attitude of Canadians to Canadian artistic expression. On the one hand you have the too generous parental appreciation for the effort that is being made, even if the talent isn't too good. On the other you have the unvarnished and hostile criticism of the performance that just can't be good because it's home-grown.

You wonder if Mr. Massey noticed the same thing when he was conducting the hearings that wound up in the thick report on arts, letters and sciences. He probably glossed over that problem when the commission talked about the school 30 or 40 years ago, asking:

"Who could forget the weeks of preparation and the mounting excitement, reaching a climax in the school concert and the school play? The great night arrives, the curtains part—rather shakily and half-an-hour late—but the play with its lights and color, its tears and laughter, its triumphs and disasters—the play is on! Or can we recall the final number of the concert with the entire school assembled on the rising tiers, charging into "The Maple Leaf," a semitone too high and half a beat too soon, but with the easy skill of born musicians redressing the balance in the first few bars, to the astounded relief of the indignant conductor? But it was our play and our concert, and beyond doubt it was our audience."

Different Concerts

Mr. Massey's school concert and ours are a little different. We haven't heard "The Maple Leaf" at our school for years. But that isn't what's worrying the people in our house—the grown-up ones that is. We can't help feeling anxious over the lack of appreciation between the two artists for the other's work. They're just too brutal in their criticism.

There's only one hope for a cure. Somebody outside may run down one or the other for his or her part in the concert. Then they'll come together. Then they'll spring to mutual defense. But, in the meantime, what does one think of the other? "Hah," and it doesn't seem to furnish the encouragement that is needed to nurture cultural development in these fields.

No matter how you look at it, the climate isn't right. It's either the hothouse atmosphere of parental devotion, which overlooks faults, or it's the north wind of a contemporary's judgment that blackens the new shoot in its first thrust through the ground.

Somehow, it looks as if our kids just aren't going to be cultural.

Switch Thrown To Start New Nanaimo Power Unit

A new power substation on Nanaimo's Fraser Street went to work today for the first time.

Mayor E. C. Westwood, assisted by William Lewis, retired manager of the former Nanaimo Electric Light, Power and Heating Company Ltd., turned the switch to energize the distribution of the B.C. Power Commission's new unit.

The substation, first of a planned network for the up-island city, is on the site of the first generating plant built by the Nanaimo Electric Light, Power and Heating Company near the library in 1888.

BIG CAPACITY

The new unit substation is comprised of the most modern equipment used in urban electrical distribution. Its capacity is 3,750 kilowatt as compared with the original plant's 50 k.w.

Installation of the equipment represents a major step in the improvement of service to the urban area of Nanaimo. It will be followed according to loan requirements by similar installations in other parts of the city.

Those assisting in opening ceremonies at the new substation, besides Lewis, who is well over 80, were C. W. Nash, district manager of the Nanaimo-Duncan Power District, B. C. Power Commission; L. E. Wight, assistant district manager; S. Pitt, plant chief; S. Mathison, assistant plant chief, and members of the line crews.

J. N. Fraser Heads Appraisers' Group

J. N. Fraser has been elected president of Chapter 48, Society of Residential Appraisers.

Other officers elected at the annual meeting of the international organization were: J. D. Gunn, vice-president; R. T. Hoard, secretary-treasurer, and C. W. Conrad and A. G. Joyce, directors.

SMOKE OF BATTLE THICK

Blackboard Told Election Story As Counters Droned Their Tally

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

Victoria's civic election drama was written into history on a giant blackboard in a smoke-filled hall Thursday night.

The sound and fury, humor and debate of one of the most keenly contested mayoralty elections in 20 years was weighed by 10,405 voters.

The rest was up to the counters in the big auditorium atop the No. 1 firehall. Political fortunes rose and fell as 23 tallies went up on the board in about 4½ hours.

Twenty ballot boxes were brought upstairs after 7 o'clock poll closing and 108 men, many of whom have been on the job at election time for the past quarter of a century, slipped into familiar roles.

Through it all moved Returning Officer Frank Hunter, whose own ballot system and excellent organization provided quick tallies and top efficiency, without robbing the scene of an iota of color.

. . . And the color gets you.

WATCHED THE COUNT

There was the low hum of the counters at two long tables which ran the length of the big auditorium. It was accompanied by a conversational buzz from around 150 interested onlookers throughout the night.

They drifted quietly in and out. They leaned over the railing separating them from the counters and peered as the ballots were recorded.

With pad and pencil, a few with a seat at stake constantly checked and compared figures.

From posting of the first count at 7.45—"that's just to give the people a bt of early news"—the eye of every onlooker was glued for the most part on the blackboard, set up on the stage.

Every time Horace B. Ward, a southpaw writer who "gets out of the way of his own figures quickly," marked the board, he was the star of the show.

"I have the advantage of being left-handed . . . that way you're working away from yourself," the husky Ward grinned. "I've been on the job for 10 years, but I still get a kick out of it."

It runs in the family. His father, the late William J. Ward, was also a veteran election worker.

Few candidates showed up during the early part of the evening—some came briefly and left.

CANDIDATES ARRIVE

It was not until the vote was piled up sufficiently to leave little doubt of the outcome that candidates, both victorious and unsuccessful, made their way to the counting room. It was close to 11 o'clock.

By 11.30 Bill Farmer at the megaphone had completed calling the final "first count" figures to the blackboard. As sheets were brought to the long desk below the board, Gordon MacKenzie totaled figures on the adding machine.

Candidates were interviewed by reporters and over the radio . . . the successful wore smiles, enthusiasm of which frequently depended on the size of their majority. Their cigar smoke helped laden the already thick air.

LOSE HANDSOMELY

The vanquished bore their defeat with grace and wished those elected every success in office.

"The evening was every bit as exciting as it has ever been," said Frank Hunter, who's been at the returning officer's post for the past 24 years.

"There were more of the public here and their interest was sustained throughout the evening, much better than in other years."

With the completion of the first count, candidates, the public, radio folk and the press quietly departed.

Such was not the case for the counters . . . they were hard at it until 2.30 to complete the second count.

UNIQUE POSITION

"To my knowledge Victoria is the only city anywhere which has a second count the night of the election," said Hunter. "All of the standings were completely confirmed."

While there were 10,405 sets of ballots cast, counters had 70,000 individual ballots to check. With the second count, ballots tallied totalled 140,000.

A special table handled blank ballots and rejects.

"Some ballots were spoiled by reason of writing, too many persons voted 'for,' marked outside the blank squares or left the ballot completely blank," said Percy Wright, deputy returning officer.

"Some people write 'yes' instead of marking an 'X,'" he said.

Money Is Key, Not Structure, Socred Argues

Money is the key but not the structure of Social Credit, W. N. Chant of the Victoria branch, B.C. Social Credit League, said at a meeting Thursday night at Williams Halls.

"Money, while an important part of Social Credit, is not the whole concept," said Chant. "The real wealth of any country is the capacity to produce goods and services as, when and where desired."

He said the chronic shortage in buying power results in the pyramiding of debt and then inflation. The next step, under the present system, he said, is depression.

"Social Credit says that this does not have to be," Chant said.

Condensed from CP, AP, and UP Dispatches

SAVED—In Tokyo John Foster Dulles told Japan today that only United States military power has saved her from becoming "a Soviet Russian satelite."

Dulles

In a speech at a joint luncheon meeting of the American and Japanese Chambers of Commerce, the U.S. Ambassador at Large called upon the Japanese people to face hard realties and abandon dreams of neutrality and pacificsm.

CASUALTIES—Canada's casualties in Korea passed the 600 mark with the announcement Thursday of the names of 16 soldiers of the 25th Brigade wounded in action.

The list was the 82nd official casualty report by the army since Canadian forces first tangled with the Communists last February.

It contained the name of one soldier who suffered his second battle wound—Pte. Robert Leslie Stribbell, Hamilton, Ont.

The list brought the total battle wounded and injured to 480.

SHELVED—In Ottawa a resolution to cut down on the length of speeches in the House of Commons was talked into temporary retirement Thursday.

The resolution, drawn up by a special house committee on rules, would have limited speeches to 30 minutes instead of the present 40.

Opposition Leader George Drew and Donald Fleming (P.C.—Toronto Eglington) objected and the resolution, which had to be passed unanimously to be considered by the house in committee of the whole, was shelved.

LOST—In St. John's, Nfld., Premier J. Smallwood's new provincial government lost a member Thursday when Oliver Vardy, minister without portfolio, resigned because Smallwood refused to start a $20,000,000 slum-clearance project.

Smallwood

Smallwood said a by-election would be called soon to fill the vacancy but said his Liberal party might not contest it.

"The Conservatives can have it for the asking if they wish—that is, unless an Independent candidate enters," he said.

RELEASED—In Ottawa Canadian exporters marked Jan. 1 today as the date on which they could step up shipments to the British West Indies.

Howe

Trade Minister C. D. Howe announced Thursday night completion of negotiations with the United Kingdom and the British West Indies for a relaxation on dollar restrictions which had cut down on trade with the Caribbean islands.

Howe said that as of Jan. 1, the quotas on exports of Canadian goods to B.W.I., which now are limited to 33⅓ per cent of their 1947 value, will be raised to 40 per cent.

INHUMAN—In Leeds, Eng., a couple who maltreated a four-year-old boy until he died because "he never would have made a man" were jailed Thursday for manslaughter. The man, James Ogden, 32, was sentenced to six years, and his wife, Dorothy Ogden, 29, to two years. The boy was her son. Witnesses said they had seen the child scalded, tied up, and gagged and forced to stand for hours with his hands above his head.

ALTERNATIVE — In Hollywood actor's agent Sid Luft was $150 poorer today because he preferred a fine to a 30-day jail sentence as a result of a traffic accident and street scrap involving his girl friend, singer Judy Garland.

Garland

Luft pleaded guilty to drunk driving before Municipal Judge Harry R. Simon Thursday and peeled $150 from his bankroll when the judge gave him the option of a fine or jail.

LOUDER — Opposition members raised a storm in the Canadian Commons at Ottawa Thursday over the delay in installing a public address system in the House chamber. Their cries needed no amplifying.

W. J. Browne (P.C., St. John's West) started by asking a question which was barely audible. Someone shouted, "Louder," and Browne said:

"That's just it—what progress has been made with the installation of a microphone system in the House?"

PREDICTION—In Washington Senator Edwin C. Johnson predicted today that Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson will be the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee.

The Colorado Democrat made it clear that he did not expect President Truman to seek re-election.

He expressed these views to reporters after Sen. Frank Carlson (R., Kan.) also predicted that Mr. Truman will not be a candidate and suggested that Vinson might be the nominee.

HIGHER — Canadian department store sales were 4 per cent higher in November than the same month of last year, a preliminary survey by the Bureau of Statistics showed today.

Sales held steady or were up last month in every area except the Maritimes compared with November, 1950, the bureau said.

Re-Elections In Island Centres

Chief officers in up-island centres were returned in civic elections Thursday.

Results were as follows:

Duncan—John T. Dobson and George W. Highmore were named to fill two council seats. Dobson polled 414 votes, Highmore 283. Ivan P. Dobbyn, third man in the race, polled 174 votes. Trustee Percival R. Leighton was returned to the Cowichan District School Board. He polled 318 votes while his only competitor, William F. Richter, drew support from 170.

About 50 per cent of the voters turned out.

Nanaimo — Robert T. Wilson topped the poll in the Nanaimo election which saw three aldermen and two school trustees returned to office.

Ald. Wilson won 956 votes. George Addison was next with 845 and John Thompson close behind with 819. Newcomers George Bryce and Arthur Clark polled 559 and 424 respectively.

Mayor Earl C. Westwood was returned to office by acclamation earlier.

George Darling, with 987 votes, and B. C. Armstrong, with 996, were sent back to serve again on the Nanaimo school board. William Eidse, third man in the race, polled 406.

Ladysmith — Dr. A. T. Verchere, with 312 votes, and P. R. Battie, with 302, were returned to city council in Ladysmith. Other candidates, Axel Anderson and Bernard Churchill, polled 275 votes and 236 respectively.

Parksville — George H. Abernathy and James B. Washington were re-elected village commissioners. Abernathy polled 226 and Washington 174.

Qualicum Beach—J. Craig Reid was re-elected village commissioner with 149 votes and Donald S. MacMillan was elected commissioner with 135 votes. A by-law to authorize purchase of waterfront property won out with 136 in favor and 26 against.

Port Alberni—Loran T. Jordan was re-elected mayor with 986 votes. W. C. Hamilton, defeated candidate, polled 560 votes.

George J. Folkard was re-elected to city council, and Hugh S. Fowlie and Norman Odgers were elected, defeating William T. G. Goddard, William Riley, Henry Salmon, Kurt Anker, Charles H. Tidford and John L. Mosdell. A city park referendum was defeated 878 to 610.

Alberni—Ben. S. Wright was re-elected mayor with 343 votes, defeating Ed Cox and Walter Grieve, with 252 and 172 votes respectively. Ernest Hanratty defeated Maurice White for a one-year school board term.

Campbell River—Carl O. Thulin was re-elected village commissioner with 274 votes. J. Boyd Wilson was also elected commissioner with 310 votes. Mrs. Valerie Clerke, defeated candidate, polled 149 votes.

Monday store closing was confirmed by plebiscite. Votes for Monday closing totalled 291 against 119 for Wednesday closing.

TRUMAN CONTINUES CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN

U.S. Attorney-General's Job Said Becoming Less Secure In Face Of 'Drastic Action'

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (UP)—President Truman pushed ahead today to get his government clean-up campaign in full swing as reports persisted that Attorney-General J. Howard McGrath's job is getting increasingly less secure.

Mr. Truman hoped to complete his housecleaning plan by Sunday. However, some members of his staff believed he would not announce the blueprint of his "new and drastic action" until next week.

Although the President told newsmen Thursday he knew of no pending cabinet changes, a new development came to light in the relations between Mr. Truman and McGrath.

It was learned on unimpreachable authority that the President had conducted an independent investigation of T. Lamar Caudle, the ousted assistant attorney-general, without McGrath's knowledge.

This source said Mr. Truman referred to this investigation when he told reporters that he had been on to Caudle and was ready to fire him before Caudle popped up as the key figure in the tax scandal inquiry by a House ways and means subcommittee.

A high official and intimate of the President said Mr. Truman learned through independent channels of Caudle's activities while heading the justice department's tax division. Mr. Truman determined to fire Caudle if these reports were true.

The presidential intimate same Mr. Truman ordered an investigation entirely independent of the justice department. Proceeding through rather unusual channels required more time than an ordinary investigative process, this source said, but within 48 hours after the President received a report convincing him that the preliminary story of Caudle's outside activities was true, he ordered McGrath to get Caudle's resignation immediately.

This apparently accounted for the wide divergence in the attitude of Mr. Truman and McGrath toward Caudle. McGrath told the House investigators he knew nothing about the "outside activities" of Caudle which the President found incompatible with his official duties. Mr. Truman, when asked about McGrath's testimony, replied sternly that he does not keep books for McGrath, only for himself.

When it was noted that McGrath said he saw nothing wrong about Caudle's activities, Mr. Truman said quickly that no government employee should have outside interests and he is going to do something about it.

Cubs And Scouts Raise Hall Fund Cash At Bazaar

It takes Boy Scouts to get a job done.

Last Saturday, in an effort to raise funds to complete their hall, the Mt. Tolmie Cubs and Scouts staged a bazaar. They realized $132.

The Scouts looked after a fish-pond and sold Christmas trees. To help the Scouts, five merchants donated tombola prizes.

Found Hanged

Body of a Polish immigrant was found hanging from a tree in the Copper Canyon country west of Chemainus Thursday.

R.C.M.P. identified the body as that of Jan Karus, 31, employed at the Copper Canyon Logging Co., who disappeared Nov. 18.

An inquest was scheduled today in Duncan. Karus served with the British Army Tank Corps in the Second World War. He had only been in Canada a short time.

Alberni Board Back Power Plan

(Special to The Times)

PORT ALBERNI. — Port Alberni and District Board of Trade has passed a resolution supporting Water Rights Comptroller E. H. Tredcroft in his report granting a water license to B.C. Power Commission for the damming of Buttle Lake to develop extra power at the John Hart Hydro.

The resolution, sent to all members of the cabinet and members of the Legislature, supports the power scheme on the basis of the safeguards for Strathcona Park laid down by the water comptroller in his findings.

STUART KEATE, Publisher — BRUCE HUTCHISON, Editor

New Man At The Helm

VICTORIA CALLED A DOUGHTY cavalier in a cape to be its next mayor yesterday and today wondered vaguely how he would redeem the only dramatic promises made in the mayoralty contest.

Claude L. Harrison, well-publicized superannuated city prosecutor, capitalized on the vote of protest against the administration to lead Dr. J. D. Hunter by almost 800 votes. Hunter, veteran former alderman and strong defender of the city council's record—a man who has given tireless and distinguished service to Victoria—found the satisfied citizens' support divided between himself and M. Aubrey Kent, former alderman who enjoyed Non-Partisan support and finished in third place. The public's appreciation for the novelty introduced into the contest by Harry Haigh was reflected in the 744 votes given to him.

Although Mayor-elect Harrison spoke out against the present administration, four of five incumbents were returned to the council with Alderman Waldo Skillings heading the poll. New in that field will be Mr. Harrison's supporter Alderman-elect Brent Murdoch, who brings youth and new blood to the circle following service as police commissioner.

As he proceeds to the serious duties of chief magistrate in the new year, Mr. Harrison will be given the opportunity to follow up his call for better treatment for Victoria from Ottawa under the terms of union. He will be given the chance to proceed with his claims for assistance from the province for Point Ellice bridge, and will have a voice in the affairs of the Greater Victoria Water Board.

A faithful servant of this community during his long term as city prosecutor, his new position—the first public office to which he has been elected—promises him opportunities for the expression of a dynamic personality.

It is regrettable that only a little more than half the voters of Victoria took the trouble to exercise the franchise. In part this disregard for the democratic privilege of marking ballots must be laid to apathy. On the other hand, suggestions that polling hours were inconvenient for working people deserve consideration, and thought should be given to their extension.

As the result of the voting, the city stands virtually pledged to a reduction in council in the next two years, a course the overwhelming majority of the voters want.

Polling yesterday left the council membership almost intact, but with a new pilot at the helm. May they continue to enjoy the success and harmony that has been the keynote of civic work in recent years.

Indians And Liquor

THE EXPECTED REACTION HAS come from Indian spokesmen on new liquor rulings which permit natives to drink in beer parlors in British Columbia. The Indians are far from satisfied with the privilege. It still leaves them in the position of inferior citizens as far as the purchase of hard liquor is concerned. They want equality with other people—an equality they can only enjoy under existing law if they become enfranchised and yield their special rights as Indians.

As the law stands, an Indian who has left the reservation, has become enfranchised and has thereby withdrawn any claim to concessions given to reservation Indians, can buy or drink liquor under the same conditions as any other Canadian citizen.

The Indian remaining on the reservation and continuing in the position of the government's ward, cannot buy or drink hard liquor legally. He can, however, by the new ruling, buy and drink beer in a beer parlor. The government, in other words, exercises its right to lay down specific regulations for its wards, and has yielded a point on consumption of beer only in licensed premises.

An anomaly presents itself immediately a study is made of the Indian before and after enfranchisement. While he remains under a relationship of ward of the government, he is presumably not to be trusted with alcohol. Once he steps out of that category, to become a Canadian with full Canadian rights and responsibilities, he appears to become a different person physically. Then, it would seem, he can handle his liquor.

It has been argued time and again that Indians who want hard liquor can get it whenever they wish, provided they have the funds to pay bootleg prices. It is doubtful if granting them entry to the beer parlors will greatly reduce this shoddy traffic. And the extension to them of beer parlor privileges quite obviously does not free them of the feeling that they are discriminated against.

It is not argued here that freer access to liquor would do the Indian any good in a physical sense. Psychologically, however, that right could have value. It might, as some of our Coast Indians remark, allow him to "walk with his back straight, like the Indians in Alaska."

The broader problem would nevertheless remain. That concerns the means by which more Indians can be encouraged to accept the full status of Canadian citizenship, shouldering its responsibilities as well as enjoying its privileges—not merely the right to drink.

Two Systems Compared

MR. CHURCHILL'S PREPARATIONS to impose an excess-profits tax on British industry remind us once again of the curious anomaly that Britain, under socialism, levied lower taxes on corporations than does the free-enterprising United States.

Some figures assembled by U.S. News and World Report indicate that an American corporation may pay as much as 50 per cent more than its British counterpart of equal size. The case is cited of a company in each country earning the equivalent of $1 million. The British firm's total tax is given as $459,357; the American's $694,500.

The U.S. taxation system is designed to hit corporation income and go relatively lightly on the private individual. The reverse is true in Britain, on the basis that industry is the goose that lays the golden eggs and should not be too burdened by onerous levies.

At the same time, the British taxpayer has an advantage over his United States cousin. Income he derives from corporation dividends is taxed at the source, but the payment is made in the shareholder's name and credited on his personal tax return.

In the United States, and Canada as well, so-called double taxation is in effect. The corporation's earnings are taxed in the first place, and any of this wealth that is distributed as dividends is again taxed as personal income of the shareholder.

Another striking difference between the two systems lies in the government attitude toward the use of corporation earnings. In Britain the tax laws are designed to encourage plowing income back into the business. In the United States, on the other hand, the law penalizes companies that do not pay out in dividends a substantial portion of the yearly profits.

Mr. Churchill's new excess-profits levies, born of stark necessity, will alter the situation to some extent, but it is believed the advantage will still lie with the British corporation. "Hard-pressed Britain" still has some bright aspects for the American business man to admire. The tax burden on the individual citizen, and the relative standards of living enjoyed in the two countries, are quite another matter.

Still Some Voting To Be Done

WIDE INTEREST IN THE GOVERNment closest to the people—an interest which reached its peak in city voting yesterday—should carry over to the municipalities of Saanich, Central Saanich and Esquimalt tomorrow.

In those three districts important contests are being held to decided who will represent residents in the various offices. Only in Esquimalt is the reeveship at stake, but in two Saanich areas choices are offered in council and police commission ranks, and in Central Saanich a contest is being held for school trustees. All offices but that of school board member are in question in Esquimalt.

Beyond that, Saanich itself is calling upon the voters for an expression of opinion on two important questions—that of providing sidewalks for schools at a cost of one mill for each of the next four years, and that of voting one-half mill for children's playgrounds in the municipality.

In every instance those qualified to vote have a duty to discharge. It is up to them to see that they meet this important responsibility of citizenship.

No election has been necessary in Oak Bay. There the residents have given tacit approval to all incumbents. To those who return to office by acclamation, we extend our congratulations, including with them Reeve Casey, whom Saanich similarly honored, and other candidates in the city and municipalities who faced no opposition.

Across The Cottonwood

MORE THAN AN ESSENTIAL LINK in the P.G.E. railway from Quesnel to its projected Prince George terminus has been forged by the newly completed bridge over Cottonwood Canyon. The achievement of that project marks the solution of a problem which has puzzled engineers for the last 35 years.

Crossing the Cottonwood defied two previous attempts. In neither were the engineers able to find sufficiently stable footing to carry their span. One effort was abandoned almost before it was begun. In the second instance substantial progress had been made before the undertaking was declared unsuccessful.

The bridge may not be one of the most outstanding examples of engineering genius on the continent. It is, however, a monument to perseverence and ability on the part of British Columbia men who have surmounted one of the greatest difficulties in the entire line now they have completed the span. Another of the physical barriers to north-south development in this province has apparently been overcome.

LOOSE ENDS

The Color Of Emily

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

THE irrepressible Sitwells are in trouble again. If Sir Osbert isn't caricaturing his eminent father and hearing Laughter in the Next Room, his sister, Edith, is quarreling languidly with the literary critics and has now outdone herself by writing a poem about "Emily-colored primulas," to the outrage of Philip Toynbee, son of another famous English house.

Hutchison

Precisely what hue Emily-colored primulas may be we can leave to the poets and horticulturists who are in a fine flap and write their angry, Emily-colored letters to the London press. The point, as Miss Sitwell says herself, is that she is trying to communicate to the public something which cannot be said in ordinary words and she has failed. And it is this failure, on a much wider scale, which threatens to destroy our vague Emily-colored civilization.

CIVILIZATION, or that part of it based on democracy, is primarily a system of communication. When the communication lines break down the whole complex structure collapses. At the moment those lines are pretty badly snarled. The words between nation and nation, class and class, man and neighbor, come through slurred and scrambled.

It is not that we lack all the mechanical avenues of information. We have a far better system than our grandfathers ever enjoyed but somehow we cannot make it work. It seems to be distorted by the static of a disturbed atmosphere.

On closer examination it will be found that the static is mostly in the listener's head. We cannot understand the meaning of the signals because we are not trained to understand them.

WE ARE trained for everything else. Our schools turn out swarms of students who understand the fission of atoms but are unprepared to vote in an aldermanic election. Our universities produce their annual crop of B.A.'s unfit to serve on a local school board.

Doubtless they are all better educated than we were in our time—they could hardly be worse—but that misses the whole point. The point, of course, is that democracy, to survive, must know a hundred times more than it knew fifty years ago because its problems have been piling up much faster than we can solve them. Education has increased its pace but democracy has moved even faster and is now miles ahead of us.

IT IS said—and this seems to be the basic assumption of our school system—that it is useless to educate the mass of children for anything but the simple jobs of life, that only a few brilliant students should be given the full treatment which can fit them for the larger responsibilities of society. The idea is hardly new, going back at least as far as Plato's "Republic," wherein the fascist notion of leadership was first plainly proclaimed. The theory of practical education, to make competent bricklayers and plumbers while selecting a few superior persons for the higher professions, is Platonic but it is not democratic and, if it is forced, will surely end democracy.

FOR democracy does not depend primarily on its leaders but on its followers. We have plenty of leaders—most of whom, by the way, were never trained for their jobs in school and had to learn their trade in the doing—but the followers are hardly trained at all.

Last night, for example, I was talking with a great industrialist who manages millions of dollars and he had no notion of how our Canadian constitution works. A distinguished physician who has saved countless human lives confessed that he had never heard of those sovereign sections 90 and 91 of the B.N.A. Act. When the conversation changed to the inevitable subject of prices it was immediately apparent that none of us had any clear grasp of the economic system. Some of those present were brilliantly educated, at great cost and labor, but none had been educated for democracy. None was really fit to cast a ballot in this age.

HENCE it is that the wildest nonsense can be uttered in Parliament, legislature and local meeting every day and wildly applauded by the public, that the newspapers faithfully reporting the speeches can be filled with a perpetual fantasia accepted by their readers as ripe wisdom, that the homes of Canada are filled with superstition and myth which even a Hottentot would regard as an insult to his intelligence.

As an ignorant man, too old to be educated, I have the greatest sympathy with teachers who apparently are trying above all to let the young express themselves instead of cramming them with information. But I suspect that it would do no harm if the young also learned something while expanding their egos, especially if they learned at least the rudiments of the democratic system.

THEN, with even a minimum grasp of government, history and economics, which any normal child could acquire in a couple of years, he might reject the solemn idiocies which we embrace and then wonder why society, made by ourselves, is always blowing up in our faces.

If every middle-aged person in this country knew as much about public affairs as a child of ten could easily learn with reasonable instruction democracy would begin to catch up with the problem which it is constantly generating. My friends in the teaching profession reply that they are producing just such well-rounded citizens but the state of the public mind denies it. Society is growing more literate but its problems are moving even faster and democracy threatens to become more Emily-colored all the time.

Disarmament

New York Times

The West has no objections to complete—if mutual—inspection because with us such investigations would only be military. There is nothing to inspect, politically and economically, that is not already known, and mutual contacts between individuals on both sides are welcome, so far as we are concerned.

This most obviously is not true of the Communist countries. They would cease to exist—in their present form under their present rulers—if the Iron Curtain melted; their world would melt with it. They could not stand the light of our day and they cannot permit their people to see the light.

'Is That All You've Got?'

Under Our Roof

By JOHN RHODES STURDY

HOLLYWOOD—It was just the other day that Col. S. Skeffington-Smutts (Ret.) was given another dose of the Hollywood "A" treatment for distinguished visitors. He was guest of honor at a studio cocktail party.

The Colonel is here, you know, to act as technical adviser for a celluloid epic called "The Poona Lancers," but since his arrival he has done nothing but live in a magnificent hotel suite and endorse cheques which the motion picture company keeps sending him by messenger. Hamish and Little Augie and I are living with him, and up to now it's been a peaceful existence, particularly since Anastasia Wiggs-Wiggs, who came south with us, has been spending most of her time at San Pedro, keeping an eye on the U.S. navy.

Sturdy

I suppose the Colonel's name went through the studio publicity department as a matter of routine, marked "A," because the other afternoon our suite was suddenly invaded by a perspiring young man, three blondes, a red-head and a brunette.

"Which is the Colonel?" demanded the young man.

I pointed out the gentleman who was sitting on the sofa, sharpening his beloved cavalry sword, and the young man from the studio snapped his fingers and the two blondes, the red-head and the brunette went into action. Up to this point they had appeared a little bored about the whole thing, but now their pretty faces suddenly came to life and they proceeded to drape themselves all over the Colonel while the young man produced a camera and started to take pictures.

"Okay," said the young man. The three blondes, the red-head and the brunette immediately relaxed into what seemed to be a normal state of boredom, fixed their lips and left. Not one of them had said a word.

"Let's go," said the young man. Before we realized it the Colonel and I were whisked downstairs and out the front of the hotel where an over-sized Cadillac was waiting. Inside were three brunettes, a red-head and a blonde. They kept us company all the way to the studio, but when the Cadillac was dismissed inside the gate they went with it.

Outside the commissary we were met by three red-heads, a blonde and a brunette. This latest shift went into immediate action on the Colonel and more pictures were taken. Old Stacey was pretty groggy by this time, and I couldn't tell where his natural ruddy complexion left off and the lipstick began, but I must say he was keeping on his feet like a veteran trooper.

We were escorted to Bungalow Two and flung headlong into a mass of humanity. On a movie lot a bungalow is a glorified dressing-room, complete with everything including a kitchen, and there is one in every studio that is always reserved for cocktail parties.

From the appearance of a large number of people in Bungalow Two, the Colonel's party had been warming up for several days. We arrived at 5.30 and at 7.15 I was still standing in the same spot, about four and a half feet from the door. The crowd was so dense that it was impossible to move.

I remember talking to one sad faced little man who was wedged in under my right elbow, and he confided to me that he was the guest-of-honor. I told him that I thought there must be some mistake, because Col. S. Skeffington-Smutts (Ret.) was the guest of nonor, but he insisted that the studio had planned a cocktail party for him on Tuesday.

"But this is Thursday," I said.

He just shrugged.

As far as I know the Colonel was never introduced to anyone. I found him eventually in the bathroom, sitting disconsolately on the edge of the tub, and we left by the back window.

A Cadillac was waiting for us at the gates, and in it were three blondes, three red-heads and three brunettes. Parting pictures were taken, more lipstick was used up, and the young ladies accompanied us back to the hotel.

Not one word was spoken.

The Colonel was weak by the time we reached our suite. He was mumbling incoherently to himself and trying to wipe off some of the lipstick. We walked into the sitting-room and a familiar and menacing figure rose from the chesterfield.

It was Anastasia Wiggs-Wiggs.

She took one look at the Colonel's red-smeared face and reached for her elephant-gun.

When last seen the Colonel was heading north through San Fernando with Anastasia in full pursuit.

Speaks For Truth

Financial Post

The CBC is under attack for giving radio time to views which may be contrary to those held by many Canadians. Some M.P.'s have charged that some of the talks were improper, irreligious and even aiding communism.

It was Voltaire who is credited with saying, "I disapprove of what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it."

Although Voltaire was not present, fortunately John Diefenbaker was, as a member of the parliamentary committee on radio broadcasting. He spoke out in defense of the CBC's policy. He said that although he might disagree with the views expressed, so long as the broadcasts did not contravene the laws of libel, sedition and blasphemy, they should be permitted.

"If we take the position of censors of what is being said," added Mr. Diefenbaker, "then we are in the situation where the majority will do the thinking for the minority, and where truth will be established and finalized once and for all. Many of the advances we have made would never have occurred if truth were considered to be finalized because the majority would have seen to it that they were forbidden by law."

Three cheers for John Diefenbaker.

Prepared

"The spirit is ready."
Mark 14:38

"You ready for Christmas?" everyone asks . . . So busy with their Yuletide tasks . . . Of wrapping presents and stocking the larder . . . Preparing for Santa with all their ardor . . . But "Ready" means more than tinsel and gifts . . . Than lighted trees and cotton snowdrifts . . . If you sing carols and stories read . . . From Luke and Dickens and will give heed . . . To helping the poor with Christmas cheer . . . A happier season you'll have this year.

As Our Readers See It

PRICE FIXING

The Canadian Citizens' League was recently formed to ensure that our elected representatives carry out the wishes of the people. In this regard the most urgent wish of every loyal Canadian without question is that something should be done immediately to stop further inflation.

In Canada, inflation is only possible whilst our citizens are treated subservient to monetary policies, and industrial and commercial exploitation.

Therefore the Victoria Branch of the Canadian Citizens' League is most gratified to learn it is the intention of the government this week to bring forward binding legislation that will prohibit both retail and wholesale price fixing, by manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers.

We feel such practises encourage inflation and are definitely and without question against the best interests of Canada and its people.

RELIEF FROM RELIEF

"Beware of giving anything for nothing." Those were the words of a great hearted and generous person, who had been for some years secretary of what was then perhaps the largest charitable society in the world. He had had a broad and deep experience of the wants of the needy and the best way of relieving them. "To give anything for nothing is too often the easiest way of starting a man to utter helplessness, dependency and ruin," he used to go on.

I thought of his advice when reading an article in November's Reader's Digest. It is called, "Relief Can Mean Ruin." The author, since 1934, has been a justice in the department of domestic relations. Most of that court's cases "originate with families on relief." He, one of 17 justices in that court, had over 20,000 such cases before him.

Victoria city's accounts for 1950 show this city disbursed in 1950 the sum of $358,304.77 for the item "unemployables." I am told the Dominion and the province pay 80 per cent of that money.

But that is not the point, even though in this city of perhaps 17,000 families, the cost of "unemployables" runs to nearly $7,000.00 a week. That sum, of course, does not include the other social welfare expenses, such as aid to aged persons, to unemployed, child Welfare ($30,580.76) and sundry ($62,836.29). The grand total under the heading, Social Welfare, is $479,521.82.

No sensible person questions that money must and should be spent in such ways.

The point is what is the effect of such relief on the person who receives it?

Justice Panken's evidence gives some idea of the effects and some of the difficulties. He also gives his solution.

One family had spent 15 years on relief, receiving $35,000.00.

The father of a family, seven of whose children were costing the city $110 a week, went fishing every day, sold his catch, and used the money for "personal expenses."

Of $500 a year given specifically for clothing, over $300 was spent for drink, "along with much of $3,180 allotted annally for food, rent and other essentials."

Justice Panken's solution is a "carefully supervised program of public works for those on relief." We need new parks, new sewer lines, new pathways, but not more "leaf raking jobs."

Probably few, if any, of New York's problems are quite those now existing here. But the sum we spent in 1950, a year when work was abundant, when many were overworked for lack of help, when things which urgently needed doing were left undone for lack of help, seems to warrant at least the attention of our citizens and perhaps a detailed explanation from the city authorities.

If we knew the whole story we might decide we must spend more, for a time at least, to try and make some of the unemployable able to become independent. What a great word, "independent."

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"THESE are days," said the Elevator Man, "when the old truths seem to be crumbling. Even the new truths are crumbling. Each day some new fact pops up to disillusion us, some tried and true belief is overthrown, some sure anchor of information is dragged from its moorings in the soft mud of tradition. Somebody may show beyond dispute that a rolling stone DOES gather moss. Somebody else proves that the earth is really only a few thousand years old, or conversely, that it is billions of years of age. And so our hoarded little gold nuggets of knowledge are always being rubbed. The friction of daily discoveries is gradually reducing them to dust. Lower main!

Tobin

"The latest revelation," said the Elevator Man, "is about diet, like so many of them are. An expert in London now tells us that we've been wrong all along about spinach. 'There is no scientific reason why spinach should give anyone, even Popeye, strength,' he says, and down topple a thousand towers of belief earnestly built up by mothers for their little Jimmies and Toms and Joes. It seems that spinach contains iron, all right, just like we've always been told. But it also contains oxalic acid which doctors believe combines with the iron and prevents the body absorbing it. So die our cherished illusions. We'll continue to eat spinach, probably, but without the conscious pride in suffering for virtue's sake. We'll eat it from habit, or because we haven't anything else. We've had taken from us the joy of knowing that we, and little Jimmy, are enduring it for our own good. Going down!

"You begin to wonder," said the Elevator Man, "just how enjoyable life would be if all our medicines tasted nice, if the foods that are good for us were delicious and those that harm us were horrible. I imagine we'd soon trump up some reason to torture ourselves with the evil-tasting things and persuade ourselves it was to our benefit. We all love pleasure, all right, but we aren't really happy unless we scourge ourselves a bit, too."

3 Powers Sign Fishing Pact

TOKYO, Dec. 14 (AP)—Japan, Canada and the United States today signed a 10-year fishing pact that provisionally splits the North Pacific for salmon, halibut and herring fishing.

The line is provisional. It is subject to review by a three-power commission set up by the treaty.

The provisional demarcation line runs generally along the line of the 175th meridian, almost midway between the Hawaiian and Wake Islands.

Salmon fishing, one of the main stumbling blocks of the conference, was referred to the commission for further study to determine if there are areas where salmon originating in North American waters mingle with salmon originating in Asian streams.

In such a case, the commission is charged with adjusting the provisional demarcation line. A unanimous vote of the commission would be necessary.

In the event of a deadlock the treaty provides the matter will be referred to a group of scientists from countries not involved in the treaty.

The pact covers all the North Pacific with the exception of territorial waters of the powers concerned.

The treaty will run for 10 years. It will be extended indefinitely unless one of the powers serves notice that it is withdrawing.

The treaty was signed by William C. Herrington and W. F. Looney for the United States; A. R. Menzies, head of the Canadian liaison mission in Japan, and Stewart Bates, deputy fisheries minister for Canada, and for Japanese by Ryutaro Nemoto, agricultural and forestry minister, and Sadao Iguchi, vice-minister for foreign affairs.

The fisheries treaty must be ratified by the three countries.

HOME GARDEN

by Jack Beastall

Home gardeners having large peach trees know about peach-leaf curl. Those who have just planted a peach or purchased property on which peach trees are growing, will know about it in a few months since it is a serious disease in any area which experiences cold, wet weather in spring.

Jack

It is comparatively easy to recognize the disease because the leaves will be puckered along the mid-vein, curled and distorted, and of a glistening yellow or reddish color.

The damaged leaves become brown and are shed, soon to be replaced by a new crop. This has led gardeners to believe that the trees are unhurt, but the reduction in the food manufactured, coupled with the effort expended in producing new leaves, seriously affects the vitality of the tree, interferes with the setting of fruit, and the tree is more susceptible to winter injury.

Peach-leaf curl is a fungous disease, the spores of which live over winter on the bark and gain entrance to the buds when growth starts in the spring. Since the buds on peach trees are active very early in the season, during January in some localities, control measures must be taken before January 1.

Bordeaux mixture is the approved spray for the coastal areas of B.C. It is a mixture of copper sulphate (bluestone) and lime, and is purchased in powder form to which the required amount of water is added. Bluestone being corrosive, all mixing must be done in containers of glass, earthenware or wood.

The old formula was for a 4-4-40 mixture which means four pounds bluestone, four pounds hydrated lime and 40 gallons water (50 American gallons). More recent reports advocate a 4-6-40 mixture, an increase in the lime content which tends to offset the burning effect of the bluestone. The gardener may use whichever is procurable. The spraying should be done on a windless and rainless day when the temperature is above freezing, and the percentage of control will depend on the thoroughness with which the tree is covered.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

VICTORIA'S SUNSHINE RECORD TO DATE, 1951—2,506.3 HOURS

SYNOPSIS: Cloudiness is increasing along the coast in advance of a new Pacific disturbance. This storm is now centred in the Gulf of Alaska and will bring rain to the north coast today and snow to the northern Interior tonight. Occasional light rain will spread to the south coast Saturday.

Polar air covers most of the Interior and below zero temperatures occurred Thursday night in the northern sections. Tonight will probably be not quite as cold due to increasing cloud.

REGIONAL FORECASTS VALID UNTIL MIDNIGHT SATURDAY

VICTORIA: Cloudy Saturday. Rain by Saturday evening. Little change in temperature. Light winds. Low tonight and high Saturday, 38 and 44.

WEST COAST: Rain tonight and Saturday. Little change in temperature. Light winds, becoming southeast 20 Saturday. Low tonight and high Saturday at Estevan, 38 and 45.

VANCOUVER AND GEORGIA STRAIT: Cloudy Saturday. Rain by Saturday evening. A little milder. Light winds. Low tonight and high Saturday at Vancouver Airport, Abbotsford and Nanaimo, 35 and 42.

Morals Broadcasts Of CBC Hot Issue In Parliament

OTTAWA, Dec. 14 (CP)—A battle of ideologies raged in the Commons Thursday.

It grew out of a controversial series of broadcasts made over the CBC in its Wednesday night programs by noted physicians, psychologists and philosophers speaking on religious, moral and similar subjects.

The debate broke across party lines, with some members protesting that such subjects should not be aired in the home while others upheld the broadcasts on the ground that there must be freedom of speech on the air.

Some expressed fear for children hearing such broadcasts.

It ended with revenue minister McCann, the minister who reports by parliament for the CBC, conceding that "in this particular instance probably something got over the air which it would have been better for the great majority of our people not to have been permitted to go over the air."

The discussion developed on a government bill to provide the CBC with grants of $6,250,000 annually for a five-year period. The legislation later was adopted and now goes to the Senate.

The protests centred around broadcasts by Bertrand Russell, eminent British philosopher; Dr. Anna Freud, daughter of the famed founder of psycho-analysis; Dr. Carl Binger, professor of psychiatry at Cornell University, New York; Dr. Ewen Cameron, professor of psychiatry at McGill University, and Dr. Brock Chisholm, Canadian psychiatrist of international renown and chairman of the world health organization.

John Blackmore (S.C.—Lethbridge), a school teacher and father of 12 children, protested that Dr. Chisholm held views on birth control that were against the teachings of the Bible and against the views of 80 per cent of the Canadian people.

The CBC was allowing over the airways an "indoctrination" process by a man who wanted to dry up the source of all man power. This indoctrination was a "monstrosity" which "petrifies the imagination."

R. R. Knight (C.C.F., Saskatoon) took the view that limitation of such broadcasts would breach the freedom of speech.

As for children, he encouraged his child to "see everything and examine everything and then bring to bear that intelligence of his own that he may make his own choice." His responsibility was to "guide him along what I believe is the proper road and to provide him with a good example," to see that he is "equipped with the ability with which to make this choice."

Dr. Pierre Gauthier (L., Portneuf) protested that he did not want to see Canada's children become "a bunch of sex maniacs." It was immoral to say that children should be left "free with their sex appetites."

Children were not prepared to "assimilate, digest and differentiate." It was up to their parents and to professors in universities to prepare them for such views.

Clarie Gillis (C.C.F., Cape Breton South) agreed that such views were not for the ears of children. If the CBC found it necessary to present such broadcasts, they should be aired as a forum, with another speaker there to give the opposing opinion and a chairman to maintain balance.

John Diefenbaker (P.C., Lake Centre) suggested it would be a denial of freedom if the majority were allowed to determine what the minority should think and say.

J. M. Dan McIvor (L., Fort William), a United Church minister, said he wanted to protest against atheistic broadcasts.

Later, the chamber voted 55 to 28 against a motion by Donald Fleming (P.C., Toronto Eglinton) which would have limited the grant to the CBC to one year, leaving it up to parliament to vote the grant in successive years. He suggested this would permit parliament to maintain control over the broadcasting system.

It also voted 60 to 27 against an amendment by John Diefenbaker (P.C., Lake Centre) to permit private stations to appeal to the exchequer court on questions of fact and law against rulings, orders and directives of the CBC.

CANNY BIRD

ASHTON, England (CP).—Ada West pinned £1 note for the coalman to the back door of her home in this Wiltshire town. The coalman didn't get it. They found her pet bird had hidden the note in the garden.

Citizens' Duty Dean's Subject

Interest in public affairs should be a year-round business, the Very Rev. Dean G. R. Calvert told Rotary Club members Thursday.

Titled "I Hate Election Day," his talk touched on the responsibility of citizens, the fact that their duty goes beyond just the ballot box one day a year and the point that man's loyalty to his fellow man was of as much importance as his freedom before the law.

Dean Calvert said elected bodies reflected the people who chose them and each individual was an inseperable part of that.

Montana Aluminum Project Approved

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP). Anaconda Copper Mining Company was granted government help Thursday to go into aluminum production on a big scale. The operation, a joint venture with the Harvey Machine Company of California, will centre at Kalispell, Mont.

Defense production administrator Manly Fleischmann announced his readiness to approve tax relief on investments totaling $95,000,000.

The decision clears the way for construction of an aluminum reduction plant at Kalispell estimated to cost at least $40,000,000.

Farey Aids Santa With Loaded Sack

CKDA announcer Ed Farey will be as busy as Santa Dec. 23.

Founder of the radio station's annual Christmas Party, he confirmed today that $3,500 has been raised to buy gifts for children at Queen Alexandra Solarium, Protestant Orphanage, Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals.

Gifts will be distributed Dec. 23 when Farey and Santa Claus ride through the Solarium gates in a red and silver sleigh drawn by six reindeer.

Railroad 'President' Surveys Layout

Top man in the Indian Valley railway organization is model train hobbyist Leslie Ledson, 2933 Albina. Saanich police constable is one of city's 35-odd collectors of miniature trains. His layout—costing hundreds of dollars—is scaled 3½ mm. to foot. Western Model Railroad Club here—of which Ledson is member—is readying a miniature train display at Solarium for children. They expect it to be ready by Dec. 23.—(Times photo.)

Spare-Time Railroaders Run Miles Of Model Lines

By RON BAIRD

You're never too old to play with trains.

And come Christmas Day, when eager children all over the city start unwrapping train sets, about 35 adults will also look under the tree for new bits and pieces to add to their advanced collections of model train layouts.

To these grown-up collectors, the model train hobby is a serious and expensive one.

There are three groups of train hobbyists in Victoria—the Western Model Railroad Club, the Live Steam Club and the "Tin-platers."

"Tin-platers" are those who buy their rolling stock and accessories ready-made.

THESE THE ELITE

For serious railroad hobbyists, the Western Model R.R. Club is considered the elite here.

Building all rolling stock (engines, etc.), tracks and accessories from prepared kits, these club members can turn out collections that are precisely scale-modeled on the basis of 3½ mm. to the foot.

It takes about four nights to turn out a pieces of rolling stock.

The tiny engines travel over tracks held in place by real spikes about one-quarter inch in length. Minute, electrically-operated switches speed the trains on their appointed rounds of scale-model townsites. Derailments are made impossible by switches that close before the trains can pile up.

WRECK MAY BE COSTLY

A wreck can be costly. Some engines cost as much as $60 each for the newer models, around $40 each for the old coal-burner types.

The Western club has about 20 members—minimum age for enrolment is 18. Those younger are not considered serious enough about a serious hobby.

The Live Steam Club members produce train models that are capable of carrying passengers—the space is cramped but the ride is there.

Saanich police constable Leslie Ledson, member of the Western club, has been a model railroader for five years and is boss-man of the Indian Valley R.R. He picked up the hobby after seeing another set-up owned by a customer on his former job with a milk company.

Now he spends as much free time as he can manage in seeing that the operations of the line are carried out in good order.

His nine-year-old son John is a "Tin-plater" but will probably come around to his father's way of thinking about the superiority of scale-models soon.

Gauges designate the size of a railroad—scale-model layouts are HO gauge, "Tin-platers" O and English-made sets OO gauge.

A steam-driven engine man—as opposed to diesel—railroader Ledson estimates he has hundreds of dollars worth of equipment.

He has 300 feet of track, divided into seven sections of the line, and nearly 50 pieces of rolling stock.

For model railroaders, the mournful wail of little engines chugging across plaster of Paris mountains, through dimly-lit cardboard towns and over bridge-spanned waterfalls packs as big a thrill as the real thing.

And it's just about that—gauged on a millimeter scale.

KNOCK OVER LEAFS

Detroit Keeps Rolling Along

By CANADIAN PRESS

If there's a club in the National Hockey League capable of stopping Detroit Red Wings in their march towards a fourth straight championship, they've yet to stick their noses above ground. This may be a kiss of death to the Wings, but right now they have every reason to be a bit snobbish in the pro hockey world.

The Wings, who would start a big hassle about "what's wrong with Detroit if they ever slipped to second place, demonstrated last night just why they are six points ahead of the runner-up Toronto Maple Leafs. They whipped the Leafs 3-1 at Detroit and became the only club in the circuit to show a victory over all opponents at home and on the road this season.

This should be reason enough to call the Wings to pick up N.H.L. championship No. 4 in as many seasons at the end of the 70-game 5½ month schedule. It was their 15th victory in 26 starts and what makes this record all the more impressive is that they can still set the pace after shedding a batch of players during the off-season to help out the struggling Chicago Black Hawks.

HAWKS GAIN NOTCH

The Hawks caught up to the idle-fifth-place New York Rangers with a 1-1 tie at home against Montreal Canadiens.

Bill Gadsby was the hometown hero when he scored the tying goal with less than three minutes of the game remaining. That nullified his "goat's" role in the first period when Montreal's boom-boom Geoffrion scored while the Hawk was sitting out a holding penalty.

SUMMARIES

TORONTO 1, DETROIT 3

First period—1, Detroit, Lindsay (Abel), 12.44; 2, Toronto, Sloan (Kennedy, Smith), 16.53. Penalties: Lewicki 5.47, Kennedy 10.26, Pronovost 10.26, Solinger 11.51, Horton 17.04, Leswick 17.04.

Second period — 3, Detroit, Pavelich (Kelly, Prystal), 2.45; 4, Detroit, Wolf (Kelly, Howe), 12.51. Penalties: Abel 5.40, Abel 9.40, Mortson 13.41, Mortson 16.50.

Third period—Scoring: None. Penalties: Reise 13.39, Horton 16.52.

Stops: Sawchuk, 2-7-4—13; Rollins, 8-10-6—24.

MONTREAL 1, CHICAGO 1

First period — 1, Montreal, Geoffrion (Lach), 17.14. Penalties: Harvey 7.14, Gadsby 16.30, Fogolin 17.32.

Second period—Scoring: None. Penalty: Meger 1.36.

Third period—2, Chicago, Gadsby (Bodnar, Horeck), 17.42. Penalty: Meger 13.25.

Shots: McNeil, 14-9-12—35; Lumley, 6-9-7—22.

Kennedy Clings To N.H.L. Scoring Lead

Ted Kennedy of Toronto continues to pace the pack in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race, his 10 goals and 17 assists being two more than Elmer Lach's total of 25.

The leaders:	G.	A.	Pts.
Kennedy, Toronto	10	17	27
Lach, Montreal	6	19	25
Smith, Toronto	10	14	24
Raleigh, New York	7	17	24
Richard, Montreal	15	8	23
Howe, Detroit	11	11	22
Mosienko, Chicago	11	9	20

AUSTIN, Tex.—Pete Gil, 153, Austin, knocked out Corky Calahan, 150, Chicago, 1.

Erb Sparks Minor Royals; Maroons Win

Royals skated to a 7-1 victory over Senators in a Victoria Minor Hockey Association midget fixture at Memorial Arena Thursday.

Brian Erb was high man of the evening with three goals, while Keith Lawrence scored twice and Steve Foster and Don McCaig once.

In a pee wee division contest, Maroons eked out a 4-3 win over Bruins.

George Wilson, Ray Longly, Rod Skillings and Meron Simpson chalked up scores for the victors, and Harvey Barker, Eric Robinson and Roy Spavin garnered the losers' goals.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP).—Jack Lohrke, utility infielder with the New York Giants for the past four seasons, was traded to the Philadelphia Phils Thursday for pitcher Jake Schmitt, 26, a southpaw.

Even The Viduals Don't Know Who'll Be Playing

Just like a Christmas present, the line-up of the Victoria Individuals will be a mystery until manager Pat Horgan and coach Norm Baker unwrap it Saturday night at Bellingham.

The Viduals are slated to face Gail Bishop's Bellingham All-Stars, certainly no cinch, and the local line-up has more holes than a Texas oil field.

To begin with, Johnny Clark has a calcium deposit on his knee which, while it may not affect his playing, is extremely painful at times.

Clark will make the trip but it is not likely that he will strip for the game.

Vic Dale is employed at the post office with the customs dept. and is in the middle of the Christmas mail rush. He will be unable to take time off.

Wes Maultsaid is a freshman at Victoria College and is in the middle of his Christmas exams. His week-end will be spent with Chaucer and John Milton.

Doug Peden has an important appointment in Nanaimo Saturday and it will not be known until tonight if he will make the trip.

SIX ANYWAY

A little simple subtraction leaves the club with Rookie Wright, Bob Boyes, Elmer Curtis, Porky Andrews, Vince Clarkson and Kenny Lawn—six players to play one of the strongest clubs in the northwest.

It is hoped that a couple of temporary replacements can be picked up prior to game. Gordy Sykes, who scored bags of points for Alberni last season has been asked to make the trip, but there is no final answer on him yet.

Horgan contacted Chuck Durgan, basketball magnate of Seattle, at a late hour Wednesday night and requested some help in lining up a player for the game. Durgan stated that he would approach Bob Graf, ex-bucket man with Seattle University and Alpine Dairy.

BRAVES AWAIT STANKY'S OKAY ON PLAYER DEAL

BOSTON, Dec. 14 (AP).—President Lou Perini and general manager John Quinn of the Boston Braves today were pressing their former star, Eddie Stanky, new manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, for his decision on an important four-player swap.

The tribal executives laid the grounti work for the deal with Fred Saigh, the Cardinals' owner, during this week's baseball meetings in New York.

"We won't mention any names now," Quinn said, "but we probably have offered the Cardinals more than we should. Saigh knows our offer and he wants Stanky's approval."

In dire need of a second baseman, it was understood that the Braves offered Vern Bickford, the 14-9 righthanded pitcher, and first baseman Earl Torgeson for infielder Red Schoendienst and catcher Del Rice.

FIELDER BETTER THAN POPEIN—FORBES

Henry And Kenny—They Sure Can Pick 'Em

By BILL WALKER

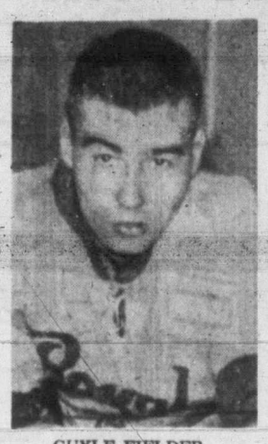
Few, if any, will deny that King Henry VIII certainly had an eye for talent, though what he did with this talent was Henry's own business.

There was Anne Boleyn, Catherine of Aragon, Anne of Cleves, and, if history is correct in all its horrid details, only one of Henry's six prospects managed to reach the big time long enough to outlive the man who had given her a start.

The others came to an untimely and sudden parting of the ways.

Kenny MacKenzie, owner of the New Westminster Royals, will tell you all this though he'll probably go into more detail. For Kenny is a keen student of history, just as he is a keen student of hockey.

And possibly out of reverence for Henry, though not for his deeds, Kenny has picked up some of Henry's flair for recognizing talent on the hoof when he sees it.



GUYLE FIELDER

One of these plums is 20-year-old Guyle Fielder, who right now with better than half a season to go is the classiest of all rookies in the Pacific Coast Hockey League.

Chicago Black Hawks owned rights to Fielder when Kenny got wind of the fact that the Hawks didn't think too highly of the Lethbridge flash. And when he learned what little interest the Hawks did have could be forgotten . . . for say . . . $2,500, well Kenny just helped the Hawks along out of one of their plights.

This yarn probably won't bear repeating in Vancouver where Larry Popein hangs his hat—reputed to be worth $15,000 on the open market at today's prices—but to coach Jake Forbes of the Royals, Fielder is so far ahead of Popein that his 33 points in only 23 games don't even to begin to tell the story.

"Popein!" Forbes will practically shout. "He doesn't belong in the same sentence with Fielder. Why, Fielder is head and shoulders above him.

"First of all he's outscored Popein 33 points to 30 this year and in 11 less games.

"Secondly: You never see Popein going into a corner and coming out with the puck. And that's where Fielder shines. He just loves company along the boards.

"And thirdly: well . . . there isn't a rookie in the league who can touch him, and that goes for several old hands as well."

All of which should make Mr. Mackenzie very proud of his foresight and faith in what $2,500 will do.

It should even be more pleasing to Mr. MacKenzie when it is realized that last year he recruited one, Butch Houle, from parts unknown, and Houle became the league's outstanding freshmen.

However, Victorians will argue that one out when Stan Long gets to the National Hockey League.

LARRY POPEIN

But this rookie business isn't all a two-player fight.

Like with Henry VIII, there's loads of talent to choose from.

Edmonton has its Joss, Thomas and Johnson; Victoria has Leon Bouchard; Calgary has Bill Gilhooley; Vancouver has, besides Popein, Bill Hagen; Seattle hasn't any; Tacoma has Brown, McDonald and O'Connor, and Saskatoon, Milford, Parker and Manson.

And New Westminster . . . well, New Westminster has MacKenzie, Forbes, Fielder and a couple of other rookies named Jerry Cabana and Robert Roberge all of whom will show here tonight.

But despite MacKenzie's sentimental regard for Henry, it's not likely that any heads will roll if the Cougars make Fielder and his Royal playmates look like the rawest recruits imagineable.

Because for one reason, Forbes likes the Cougars' rookie nominee, Leon Bouchard. And for another he thinks the Cougars are going to be a little rough from here on in.

Game time is 8.30.

Who Wants To Get Better . . . H-m-m-m?

Oh for the life of an injured athlete. Nothing to do but lie in bed all day, reading and playing cards, meals served to you, and lovely nurses fretting over your condition. Bobby Ballance (centre) of the Victoria Cougars and Einar Flaaten of Victoria United are at St. Joseph's Hospital recovering from their respective hockey and soccer wounds and every day they race each other to see who will be first to have his pulse taken by pretty nurse Marilyn McKenzie (left). Ballance is recovering from a lung injury while Flaaten has a bruised kidney.

Gavilan In Non-Title Bout Tonight

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP).—Cuban Kid Gavilan—the man with the iron jaw—tests Walter Cartier's .500 plus knockout average tonight in an interesting Madison Square Garden pairing.

You can watch (NBC-VC) or listen (ABC) at 10 p.m. EST when welter champ Gavilan again ventures into the middleweight division in a non-title 10-rounder.

Everybody pegs away at the indestructible keed and nothing happens. In 93 fights, only Ike Williams was able to knock him down—and he couldn't keep him there. In fact Gavilan won two of their three bouts.

It's often the same story when Gavilan pegs away—nothing happens. His record shows 77 wins with 22 knockouts but most of the K.O.'s came in lesser fights.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass.—Eddie Oliver, 149½, Windsor Locks, Conn., outpointed Angel Chavez, 145½, Springfield, Mass., 8.

BERGELIN FAILS SWEDES

U.S. Netters In Cup Final

By GAYLE TALBOT

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 14 (AP).—Lennart Bergelin failed his Swedish teammates badly again today as Ted Schroeder and Tony Trabert won the doubles and clinched the Davis Cup tennis cup interzone final for America.

The player who was supposed to be his country's ace in the hole collapsed after a good start, enabling Ted and Tony to come from behind and triumph easily, 10-12, 6-0, 6-3, 6-2.

Sven Davidsson, Bergelin's youthful partner, put up a spirited battle all the way, but the load was too much for one man to carry.

Bergelin's foldup was a big disappointment to the crowd of 6,000 which had hoped at least to witness a good doubles match after yesterday's one-sided singles.

There was no apparent explanation for Bergelin's adject failure to play his game. His teammates were extremely unhappy about it.

"If there had been two Davidssons out there today we might have had a Swedish victory," said Frank Shields, captain of the U.S. team.

Despite the one-sided scores in the last three sets, Schroeder and Trabert showed little to worry the Australians in the challenge round at Sydney, Dec. 26-28. The Aussies' two jewels, Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor, likely would lick them in straight sets on today's form.

Overnight, the veteran Schroeder lost the keen edge which cut Bergelin to pieces yesterday and had the Australians raving about him.

There remains the possibility that Vic Seixas will be moved into the doubles post after today's dull showing of the supposedly "all set" pair.

With victory already decided, Saturday's concluding singles will supply a dismal climax to the one-sided series here. Shields said he would stick with Schroeder and Trabert while Gunnar Galin, the Swedish captain, said he hadn't decided on his line-up.

DIMAGGIO NOT LONG MINUS JOB

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP).—Joe DiMaggio signed with the Yankees again Thursday—to do pre-game and post-game television programs in 1952.

The contract of the Yankee Clipper, who announced his retirement as a player last Tuesday, is with the Yankee ball club alone, and if it should develop that he also will handle the play-by-play on radio or television it will be a separate deal.

The sponsor of the pre-game and post-game programs is not known at present. Terms were not revealed.

Flyers Bow To Clippers, Smokies Lose

The Western International Hockey League was foiled twice last night in inter-sectional activity, Trail Smoke Eaters losing to Kelowna Packers and Spokane Flyers bowing to Nanaimo Clippers.

The Smokies saved Packers from ending their invasion of W.I.H.L. territory empty-handed. Packers, after losing to Spokane, Kimberley Dynamiters and Nelson Maple Leafs, edged Trail 4-3.

Phil Hergesheimer, Kelowna playing-coach, led his team with three goals, while Frank Hoskins notched the winner at 18.1 of the third period.

The Coast League's Nanaimo Clippers hustled to a 4-2 win over Spokane Flyers at Nanaimo.

First Period—1, Spokane, Scott (Tilson) 1.06; 2, Nanaimo, Gruhn (Berry) 12.46. Penalty—R. Bentley.

Second Period—3, Nanaimo, Culley (Defelice) 14.04. Penalty—Luke.

Third Period — 4, Nanaimo, Berry (Gruhn) 10.35; 5, Spokane, Scott 12.39; 6, Nanaimo, Gourdeau (Berry, Gruhn) 18.10. Penalty—Tilson.

PHILADELPHIA — Marvin Edelman, 163½, Philadelphia, outpointed Harold Moore, 163½, Philadelphia, 8.

Quakers Down Ironmen In New Pilot's Debut

Saskatoon 4, Seattle 2

Frankie Eddolls has 5,000 friends today that he did not have yesterday.

The new playing coach of the Saskatoon Quakers made his first appearance for the Quakers Thursday night and engineered a 4-2 win over second-place Seattle Ironmen.

Eddolls, former big-timer with Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers, gathered one assist in the Quaker win which moved them to within five points of the Ironmen in the P.C.H.L. standings. The assist came on Chuck McCullough's goal.

Bob Manson, Alex Kuzma and Ken Hunter were the other Saskatoon riflemen, while Danny Sprout and Joe Bell tallied for Seattle.

Quakers lead 2-0 at the end of the first period but Seattle came back to deadlock the issue 2-2 at the end of the second. A two-goal splurge in the third turned the trick for Saskatoon.

Bell, No. 2 scorer in the P.C.H.L., tied the count at 14.46 of the second period, with assists going to Rudy Filion and Sprout.

Ironmen, before they met Saskatoon, were trimmed 7-3 by the cellar-Calgary Stampeders and then fought to a 1-1 tie with Edmonton Flyers. They have gone four games without a victory.

THREE GAMES

New Westminster has a chance to further increase its lead tonight. With Seattle idle, Royals play at Victoria. Tacoma, meanwhile, goes to Vancouver and Calgary journeys to Edmonton.

On the OUTDOOR FRONT

By ROY THORSEN

There are certain moves under way dealing with new restrictions in regard to both sport and commercial fishing in the saltchuck.

This is revealed in the latest bulletin on "proposed changes" in B.C. from the Department of Fisheries. Periodically the department compiles a number of proposals from both factions on changes and submits them to both sport and commercial fishing units and other interested parties for observations.

There is one suggestion that salmon or grilse under 16 inches in length be not a legal catch in certain sport fishing tidal waters between Vancouver Island and the mainland.

Thorsen

This would apply to this type of fish in waters involved from a line drawn east and west through Seymour Narrows southward and easterly from Victoria to the international boundary—" but application of this arrangement would not extend to tidal portions of streams flowing into this area."

The note accompanying this clause says:

"This primarily would provide further protection to immature coho which frequent this area as a feeding ground in large quantities and where they are highly vulnerable to almost any kind of fishing lure."

In regard to commercial fishing, the proposal is that the minimum size limit for spring salmon be set at 28 inches—this to replace the present minimum weight limit of three pounds.

This, it is also represented, would be in line with recommendations in respect to commercial fishing for the Pacific Coast states and Alaska, the report says.

The Cowichan Bay Salmon Club has proposed that use of flashers, herring strip and live bait be prohibited for sport fishing in Cowichan Bay "on the grounds this would be in the best interests of conservation of spring and coho salmon fishing."

Unlawful Angling To Be Target

Proposals suggest that heavier penalties be imposed for illegal fishing in closed waters—probably such as was encountered this fall in Cowichan Bay. Proposal includes that the captain and all members of the ship be penalized and that punishments include suspension of the boat involved for periods ranging from a week to a whole season.

On these proposals the fisheries department would like to hear the views of all interested. They should be sent to A. J. Whitmore, chief supervisor of fisheries, Vancouver, before Jan. 20 next year. This means that if you've got a "beef," put it in writing.

On the local angling front at the present time—in-between seasons—grilse fishing in Saanich Inlet continues to hog the spotlight. People like Stan Williams, who is in the know, tell me that fishing still remains good in those waters.

Steelhead fishing in our rivers has not come "on" as yet.

However, Victoria's Jack Harris reports that his friend Joe Hancock tried his best last weekend in the Cowichan and did get something . . . and what he finally hooked on the river bottom was nothing other than a "thunder mug" (and let's hope we don't have to explain that article).

Lots Of Gobblers At Albert Head

As far as bird-shooters are concerned, the best bet to get a prize Sunday is the Albert Head Road grounds of the Victoria Gun Club.

You may not be able to shoot at a live target there, but top shooting on trap and skeet clay pigeon targets will mean that 85 persons will take home turkeys for the Christmas dinner. The big show—biggest of the year in these parts—will start at 10 in the morning and continue until dusk obliterates the targets.

At this shoot Cec Fletcher, D. Pottinger and H. Burkard will be shooting off for the "C" Class Trophy donated by the C. & C. Taxi's Cec Rhodes and Cec Rawlings.

Ron Page (he's of Page the Cleaner), Roger Monteith and Tom Zaccarelli will be shooting for the H. A. Humber Trophy.

But, reports Howard Damaske, club secretary, here are the outright winners of trophies:

The Colonist Cup, John Green, Courtenay; C. & C. "B" Class Trophy, Howard Zaccarelli, Victoria; Zaccarelli Doubles Trophy, Henry "Peg" Pottinger, Mill Bay, and the C.I.L. Skeet Shield, Ted Bailey, Victoria.

MAY REVIVE GAS HOUSE GANG

'Muggsy' One Of Old School

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (UP).—The St. Louis Cardinals are counting today on a little guy out of the past to revive the ancient glories of the Gas House Gang.

The Cards have won pennants since that two-fisted band of the '30's roared to baseball fame with ready knuckles and a chip on every shoulder. But none of them inflamed the imagination of the fans on the banks of the Mississippi as did the ones hoisted by the Gas House Gang.

They were players of the old school—and so is the little guy who takes over now. His name is Edward Raymond Stanky but to baseball people this blue-eyed, button-nosed throwback is "Muggsy" or "The Brat."

That describes him, this undersized scrapper who fights and snarls and claws like a cougar from the time the man in blue calls "play ball."

Back in 1947 when the new manager-second baseman of the Cards was helping the Dodgers to the pennant, Branch Rickey said of him:

"He can't run, he can't throw and he can't hit but I wouldn't trade him for Rogers Hornsby in his prime."

Stanky isn't and never has been quite that devoid of talent. No, he never was fast, never threw too brilliantly and wasn't a terror at the plate. But when you needed the extra base, the sure peg or the crucial base hit, he'd be the one to get it for you.

WILL TO WIN

That was because, while he had less than most, little Eddie made much out of it with a dedication to detail and a flaming will to win. It was spirit—like that of the old Gas House Gang.

Just go back to the last world series. In the third game he ruined a force play at second by drop-kicking the ball out of Phil Rizzuto's hand. Another time, with a Giant runner in danger of being picked off, he jumped in front of catcher Yogi Berra with waving arms and blocked the peg while waving the runner back safely.

ALWAYS THINKING

That's Sanky, always thinking. And one of his premises is to get the other guy so mad he can't think straight. Rizzuto recalls how, when they were in the minors, the local paper carried a picture of Stanky wearing boxing gloves every time he came to town.

With the brat, you see, you're either on his side or an enemy. When he was with the Cubs, Len Merullo was his pal. Eddie was traded, and the first time he played against the Cubs there was a violent take-out at second and Eddie came up swinging on his erstwhile buddy.

"We were buddies," Stanky stormed, "but now he plays on the other team."

McMorran's Stop Cowichan

Lake Cowichan High School basketball squad, making a brief tour of lower Vancouver Island, ran into their first one-way street Thursday evening by dropping a 43-27 decision to McMorran's intermediate B boys' squad at the Lake Hill Community Hall.

Steve Dobbie and Roger Bennett paced the winners with 12 points each.

McMorran's intermediate B girls took the preliminary, handing Brentwood a 23-10 defeat in a Saanich and Suburban League fixture.

Vets To Risk Unbeaten Mark Against City Unit

The powerful Legion club, champions of the first half play in the Victoria and District Football Association, will attempt to stretch their undefeated record Sunday when they take on Victoria City at lower Beacon Hill Park.

The Legionnaires have lost only one game this year, that being an upset in the recent McGavin Cup playoffs, but won every game on their first half league slate.

The City club was reinstated shortly before the cup series and worked their way into the final, losing there to Esquimalt.

Soccer action Saturday will be divided between Athletic Park and lower Beacon Hill. At Athletic, Victoria West will meet Duncan Native Sons while at the Beacon Hill pitch Esquimalt, winners of the McGavin Cup, take on Heaneys. All games start at 2.30.

District league secretary Don Gray has requested that all teams hand in their donations to the Einar Flaaten fund as soon as possible.

Oak Bay Cops Cage Crown

Oak Bay High School, which have been showing fine form in the sporting world all season, this week copped the Inter-High Junior Girls' Basketball League title by handing Mt. Douglas a 31-8 licking.

The green shirts, who finished off the season with seven wins and no losses, taking their first title in a number of years, garnered a total of 225 points, or an average of 32 per game.

Saanich Cage Sked

Three games are scheduled in the Saanich and Suburban Basketball League at the Brentwood Community Hall tonight at 7.15.

Games follow:

Pee Wee girls, Brentwood vs. Sooke.
Junior boys, Brentwood vs. Sooke.
Senior men, Brentwood vs. Sooke.

Financial Limit Sought For College Athletes

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 14 (UP).—A financial limit on aid to athletes will be a chief point to be considered when the 10-man committee of college presidents investigating athletics meets here again on Jan. 6.

The committee, appointed by the American Council on Education, announced that forthcoming topic at the same time that it suggested four sweeping reforms to be made in college sports.

These points, announced yesterday by committee chairman Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State, were:

1. A limit to the football season, which Hannah said would mean "out go the bowls."

2. Regulation of athletic scholarships by the regular scholarship board instead of the athletic department.

3. Forcing athletes to make "normal progress" toward a degree taking "legitimate courses in a prescribed curriculum."

4. Elimination of freshmen from varsity teams.

TO POLICE CODE

The group proposed that the five regional accrediting groups which have the power to remove approval of college diplomas be asked to police the new code. These groups are the North Central Association of Colleges and secondary schools, the Middle States Association, New England Association, Northwest Association and Southern Association.

These associations will be asked to send representatives to the committee's next meeting.

Mixed Foursomes Billed For Gorge

Draw for the mixed foursomes at Gorge Vale Golf Club Sunday follows:

SOUTHEASTERN SCHOOLS AGAINST BOWL ABOLITION

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP).—A recommendation by 10 college presidents that post-season college football bowl games be abolished drew quick, and from some points, bitter opposition.

Only three hours after the recommendation was announced in Washington it was disclosed reliably that Southeastern Conference athletic officials voted "almost unanimously" to tell the 10 presidents to keep hands off the S.E.C.'s liberal bowl policy.

The Southeastern Conference rule permits any member team to play in any bowl which makes the liberal distribution of tickets and cash required by National Collegiate Athletic Association regulations.

Sponsors of several bowl games said they saw nothing wrong in them, as did some college coaches. A Pacific Coast Conference spokesman said his group was "way ahead" of the College presidents, meeting in Washington to discuss a de-emphasis on college sports. Others had "no comment" at this time.

Wurtele Challenges Thomas For Esquimalt Reeveship

Esquimalt voters this year will have 12 candidates to choose from when they go to the polls Saturday.

They will vote for a reeve, three councillors for a two-year term, one councillor to serve out the one-year unexpired term of Cmdr. A. C. Wurtele, and one police commissioner for a two-year term.

For Reeve

Electors will choose one of these two men for reeve:

A. I. "Bert" Thomas, 864 Selkirk. Has served two and one-half terms as reeve. Born in Nanaimo, and a resident of Esquimalt for past 35 years, seven of them as property owner. Overseas veteran of navy in Great War, he is married and has five children. Past president of View Royal Ratepayers' Association; director of Chamber of Commerce; past chancellor and past district grand chancellor of Knights of Pythias; Mason, Royal Arch Mason and Knight Templar; Shriner; past president of Cambrian Society.

Member of Canadian Club; Esquimalt Community Club; Victoria West Community Club; Dockyard Branch, Canadian Legion; justice of the peace in Esquimalt for past 12 years, and stipendiary magistrate for Victoria.

Alfred C. Wurtele, 321 Armit. Has served on council continuously since 1945, was chairman of works and finance committees. Esquimalt representative on Jubilee Hospital Board, a hospital director and municipal representative on the Union Board of Health. Born in Kingston, Ont., he is a graduate of Halifax Naval College. Served in the navy from 1916 to 1945, retiring with the rank of commander. Now real estate salesman for Victoria City Realty.

Member of Esquimalt Branch, Canadian Legion; United Services Institute; Naval Officers' Association and Canadian Club.

For Council

Three of these candidates will be elected to two-year council terms:

George F. Argyle, 1100 Hadfield. First time up for public office. Born Edmonton, Alta., educated in Winnipeg and attended the University of Manitoba. Resident here for past 10 years. Married, has two children.

William H. Dallaway, 385 Lampson. Council member for past two years, was chairman of fire and light committee. Member Esquimalt school board six years, chairman one year. Born in Brighton, England. Property owner in Esquimalt 27 years, he is retired on superannuation from H.M.C. Dockyard, where he worked as carpenter for 27 years. A navy veteran of Great War, he is past president of the Naval Veterans' Branch, and also past president of the district council of the Canadian Legion.

Paul A. Fecteau, 530 Lampson. First attempt at public office. Born in Quebec City, he came here in 1931 and has been municipal property owner for past 13 years. Retired naval officer, is married and has two daughters. Member Naval Officers' Association, western representative of the Naval Benevolent Fund and treasurer of Esquimalt Ratepayers' Association.

G. R. Guillemaud, 859 Phoenix. Has served seven consecutive terms on council, was past chairman of fire and lights committee and finance committee. Born in Duck Lake, Sask., he farmed outside Calgary and Edmonton before coming to the coast in 1924. An Esquimalt resident for 24 years, he is assistant to agent with Imperial Oil Company.

Mrs. Annie McVie, 922 Lyall. Entered politics in 1943, serving as municipal school trustee for four years. Unsuccessful candidate for council in 1938, 1947 and 1949. President of Esquimalt Community Club for past 16 years, secretary of the Esquimalt Friendly Help organization, past vice-president of the Veterans' Hospital Auxiliary, secretary of the Senior Citizens' Campaign Council, and district deputy of Daughters of England. Born in Faversham, England, came to Canada in 1919 as war bride.

Alexander Speirs, 471 Nelson. Elected to council in 1947 for 18-month term, served again from 1949-51. Has been chairman of fire and light and reverted lands committees. Born in Glasgow, Scotland, came to Canada in 1911 and settled in Esquimalt in 1920. A career of soldiering included service in Great War and World War. Retired in 1946 with rank of captain. Member Esquimalt Branch, Canadian Legion.

Council—One Year

One of these two candidates will fill one-year unexpired term on council:

Fred H. Higgins, 1241 Juno. on council 1947-48, ran for second term but was defeated. Was chairman of parks and reverted lands committees. Born Gravesend, Kent, England, came to Esquimalt in 1925. Was in permanent army in Great War and World War, retired 1943 with rank of captain.

Walter Holder, 1012 Caldwell Road. Ran for a council seat in 1949 but was defeated during first try for public office. Born in Winnipeg, Man., came to coast as child and has lived in Esquimalt since 1906. Painting contractor, he is married and has two sons.

HEAVY LOAD

DEAL, England (CP).—Fisherman Ben Bailey's good luck nearly was his undoing. He arrived back at this Kent County port with his boat nearly sinking under the weight of 150,000 herring.

SCHOOL PIONEER

Robert Raikes, English philanthropist, in 1780 started a Sunday school at Gloucester which developed into a national movement.

Police Board

A seat on the police commission is being sought by these two candidates:

Robert L. Fletcher, 876 Admirals. First try at public office. Born in Victoria, he has resided in Esquimalt for past four years. He is married and has two children.

Michael F. Francis, 1233 Park Terrace. Has previously run for police commissioner but was unsuccessful. Manager of officers' club at H.M.C. Dockyard and member of Esquimalt Dockyard Branch, Canadian Legion. A two-war veteran, having served in both the navy and army. Well-known for his performances in featured roles with the summer presentations of the Starlight Theatre.

Injured In Fall

VANCOUVER, Dec. 14 (CP).—A Vancouver man, Mike Bodnar, is in hospital with multiple fractures received Thursday in a 40-foot fall from a pile driving truss at Port Mellon, B.C.

Bodnar was taken by boat to Horseshoe Bay, and then by ambulance to hospital in Vancouver, where he underwent an operation.

He was injured while employed by the B.C. Bridge and Dredge Company at operations at Port Mellon, on Howe Sound, 25 miles north of here.

Ditched Fliers Didn't Get Wet

SEATTLE, Dec. 14 (AP)—Five crew members of a navy patrol bomber which ditched in Puget Sound Thursday were brought safely to a Whidbey Island naval air base hospital. They didn't even get their feet wet.

Just why the plane made an emergency water landing was not known, but the men inflated the craft's rubber life raft and climbed aboard during the 11 minutes the plane bobbed on the water before sinking.

A navy crash boat picked them up.

TEACH CONSERVATION

PRETORIA (CP).—With erosion a serious problem in South Africa, every child in primary schools next year will be given lessons in the conservation of soil, water and other natural resources. The proposals were framed by education authorities in co-operation with the agriculture department.

The historic Republic of Albania on the Adriatic Sea is exclusively an agricultural and livestock state.

Central Saanich Will Elect Two For Council

Central Saanich ratepayers, voting Saturday, have five to choose from for the two council seats. There are three fighting for two police commission posts, and three for two school board vacancies.

Thumb-nail sketches of the candidates are presented herewith.

For Council

Lorne Thomson. Retired former, lives on West Saanich Road. Member of the first council, he is also active in Brentwood Bay Parks Board, South Vancouver Island Potato Growers' Association, Saanich Chamber of Commerce, South Saanich Farmers' Institute, and many other organizations. Is married and has grown family.

H. Rupert Brown. Born in Cowichan district 64 years ago, engaged in heavy construction for several years, and since 1919 has conducted contracting business in Victoria. Recently expanded interests to include City Brokerage, Victoria. He was also with city engineering department. Is married, has grown family, and makes home at Brentwood.

Harold Andrew. Came to Saanich from England 25 years ago and is now 48. Is married, with one daughter, and now is real estate salesman, following several years' employment at the B.C. Electric Brentwood plant. Elected to municipality's first council in January this year. He lives at Brentwood.

Edward Logan. Steam engineer, building contractor and Brentwood coffee shop operator, he was born in Victoria 46 years ago and has lived in Central Saanich 25 years. He has been associated with the Saanich Chamber of Commerce, the Saanich Peninsula Credit Union, and Central Saanich Ratepayers' Association. He is married and has family.

William Taylor. Native of Scotland, he began farming in Northern Alberta 25 years ago, and arrived in Saanich 15 years ago as manager of Fairways Farms. He recently purchased the farm and now has one of the largest Holstein herds in the district. Making his first bid for public office, he is married and has a family.

For Police Board

Sqdn. Ldr. E. J. McLoughlin. Born in London, he spent 14 years as pilot and administration officer of the R.C.F., operated a fox farm in ward five between wars, and in Second World War spent another eight years overseas with R.A.F. A widower, he lives in retirement at Brentwood.

George D. Moody—Superintendent of the B.C. Electric steam generating plant at Brentwood. He was born in Scotland and spent several years in Canada before coming to Brentwood 8 years ago. Married, has one daughter, is running for public office for the first time.

William P. Turner — A draughtsman with considerable government experience, he resides at Saanichton.

(Mr. Turner asked the Times that no publicity be given his candidacy, therefore only the briefest information is given, as requested by him.)

For School Board

Sydney Pickles. First reeve of the municipality, he also fought eight years for secession. Born in Sydney, Australia, in 1894, he fought as a pilot in the First World War, and lived for many years on Mount Newton Crossroad. He was connected with farmers' institute movement for many years, and member of Saanich council until secession of Ward Six. Is married, with grown family.

Hugh J. MacDonald. Shift engineer at Brentwood B.C.E. plant, he served 4½ years in navy; was discharged as warrant engineer. He was born in Vancouver, and came to this district 25 years ago. Now 32, he is married, has two children, makes home in Brentwood.

Robert C. Derrinberg—Native son of the district, he was educated at Saanichton, Victoria High, Victoria College and University of B.C., and received his M.A. degree in agriculture in 1939. Unmarried and 39 years of age, he operates a farm with his father. He is executive member of Saanich Agricultural Society, and secretary of B.C. Purebred Sheep Association.

Population of the entire world is estimated to be increasing at the rate of at least 23,000,000 a year.

Still Repairs Timepieces Despite Years

TORONTO (CP). — Seventy-seven-year-old William Etches has been in the clock-repairing business since he was 12, and believes it is his interest in his work that is keeping him alive today.

"I love my work," he said. They tell me I should retire but I'd be dead in six months if I didn't have my watches and clocks to tinker with."

One watch that he set back on its feet, a 100-year-old Swiss cylinder type, hadn't run for 20 years before its owner visited Etches. Now it is keeping good time.

Etches, a fourth-generation watchmaker, spent 12 years' apprenticeship before he set up his own business. However, he doesn't worry that neither of his sons nor his grandson followed in the trade.

"Watchmaking doesn't pay too well. One has to love the work to make a success of it."

Diamond-studded watches may please the women, but Etches doesn't think much of them. Dirt sifts through the diamond settings and damages the movement of the watch. Not practical, says Etches.

COURTESY COUNTS

LONDON (CP). — Presenting prizes to nurses, Mr. Edith Summerskill, former minister of national insurance, said "we are so immersed in discovering the latest scietific treatment that we are apt to forget the qualifications as old as the hills—kindness, understanding, courtesy and a smile."

Christmas Concert

Senior students of Margaret Jenkins School presented "The Mikado" Thursday night at their Christmas concert.

Taking part were Joanne Crawford, Gracie Chamberlain, Barbara Youson, Barbara Wallace, Tony Maynard, John Gilliland, John Lancaster and Glenn Warrington.

Skits and dances were presented by junior grade pupils Janet Markham, Paddie Cromie, Sandra Turner, Sheri Stott, Carol Slater and Jane Hardie.

DO YOU COOK?

Then you will want to know about Marmite

Marmite yeast extract has a rich appetising flavour that makes cooking seem twice as good. And it contains Vitamins of the B Complex that build up health and resistance to infection. Put a little Marmite in soups, meat dishes, sauces and savoury dishes. Enjoy it in sandwiches, on toast or as a hot drink. There are so many ways Marmite adds flavour and they all add goodness too.

Seven Fight For Four Seats On Saanich Council

Saanich electors go to the polls Saturday. There are four councillors to be elected out of seven candidates. G. S. Eden is running for both council and police commission, and for the commission is opposed by Walter Caldwell.

These are biographical sketches of the contestants:

For Council

Leslie H. Passmore. Now senior member of Saanich Council, was first elected in 1936, was reeve in 1941. He heads sewer and drainage committee, is Saanich member of Royal Oak Cemetery Board. Born in Somerset, England, has been in Victoria since 1912. Passmore is 52, married, with one daughter. Employed as storekeeper at V.M.D. His home it at 2873 Austin Ave.

Holland K. "Pat" Bate. Elected one year ago to serve one-year term. A Victoria lawyer, he was born here 29 years ago, served five and one-half years with infantry, lives on San Pedro Avenue. Is married, has two children.

David S. L. Peirce. Painting and decorating contractor, lives at 3990 Shelbourne, and is married. Was born in Calgary in 1903, lived in Victoria area since 1908, and Saanich since 1914. In last war served as staff sergeant in R.C. A.S.C. Is president of Saanich Municipal Voters' Association.

Henry G. Robinson—Royal Oak dairy farmer, he was born in Saskatchewan 38 years ago, has been in this district 21 years. Married, with one child, he is secretary-manager of Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association, and member of Mt. Newton P.-T.A.

Roy H. Wootten—Union business agent, he is married, has three children, lives at 3970 Saanich Road. Has farming background, spent many years as Saanich fireman, and left department this year with rank of lieutenant. Was president of Saanich Employees' Association for seven years.

Chad Smith—Born Shawville, Que., 49 years ago, has been resident here for 12 years, living at 1213 Maywood. Veteran of two world wars, he draws a disability pension, and is a member of veterans' organizations, Knights of Pythias, and a former officer of the Alberta Association.

For Commission

G. Stanley Eden—Between 1928 and 1935 served six years on Saanich Council, and is completing 13 consecutive years on Police Commission. Born in Staffordshire, Eng., 56 years ago, has been in Victoria 40 years and is secretary-director of Harte-Andrews Paints Ltd. He is married, with grown family of four, and lives at 3115 Wascana.

Walter Caldwell. Resident of 1936 Neil Street, he retired from Victoria police in 1945 as inspector after 36 years' service. Holds Dominion of Canada civil defense certificate, and was one of first police officers interested in traffic control.

G. Stanley Eden, sketch in council candidates' list.

EXPERT AUDIENCE

NAPIER, N.Z. (CP)—Patrick Jenkins, driving here from Wellington, hit another car and immediately found himself surrounded by no fewer than 28 traffic inspectors. The accident occurred outside a convention of the New Zealand Traffic Institute.

Canada's Northern Frontier People Settled Into 8 Months Of Isolation

HAY RIVER, N.W.T. (CP)—Navigation has ended for the year on the great Mackenzie River and deep isolation, disturbed only occasionally by the drone of aircraft, has settled over the northern frontier country.

This year the freeze-up came earlier than usual—in the middle, instead of at the end, of October. The hardy men and women who spend their winters in the far north have settled down to eight months of isolation.

During this period little goes into the vast, snow-covered region and even less comes out. This land of gold, uranium and furs booms in almost total privacy.

But from about the first week in June until the end of October the Mackenzie normally is free of ice and busy with shipping. Boats and barges move swiftly along its wide surface, carrying food, clothing, machinery and other supplies into the corridor of virgin territory extending from northern Alberta to the Arctic Ocean.

This freight, amounting to about 65,000 tons every summer, is the life blood of the booming communities along the river's 3,000-mile channel. There are no roads or rails along the Mackenzie and in four months the boats must carry provisions enough to last through eight months of winter.

For despite its great strides, aviation has not yet advanced to where it can supply the northland. Although planes bring in passengers and emergency supplies throughout the year, air traffic is too costly and too uncertain to challenge the supremacy of the river boat.

The terminus of this Arctic communications line is Hay River, a bustling frontier town on the south shore of Great Slave Lake.

Throughout the year Hay River is every bit a boom town. In the winter it is a bulging storehouse of goods bound for the gold and uranium mines, oilfields and trapping and fishing centres to the north. Its quays are piled high with freight of every description, brought by road and rail-and-road from Edmonton, 600 miles to the south.

With the first sign of break-up, Hay River becomes as lively as a seaport. Riverboat pilots and engineers arrive in groups from winter homes in the south and half-breeds and Indians swarm in from traplines for a season of comparatively high wages as deckhands and stevedores.

Boats and barges are repaired and cargo is loaded aboard. Everything is prepared for the big push-off. This preparation is important for with the short season there is barely time for the boats to make two trips to the Arctic Ocean.

Each trip takes nearly two months and delay often means an encounter with early storms that batter Great Slave Lake and its neighbor, Great Bear Lake, 300 miles to the north. Although Great Slave Lake and Great Bear Lake are only about half the size of Lake Michigan, the storms that sweep the inland seas are fierce and often disastrous.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1951

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Happy days are ahead for the drinking population of Victoria and Vancouver.

The 112,000 bottles of rum, which were being held here because they weren't fumigated by an approved officer, will be on their way to liquor stores soon.

Col. Donald McGugan, liquor commissioner, said today the department of agriculture, Ottawa, has given him permission to release the rum after the casings and straw cartons have been burned in city incinerators in Victoria and Vancouver.

* * *

The annual air force veterans' Christmas party under the auspices of the Ad Astra Branch, Canadian Legion; R.C.A.F. Association, and the Air Force Officers' Association will be held Saturday at the Britannia Branch, Canadian Legion, at 6.

* * *

Sailors off the cruiser Ontario were robbed of their civilian clothes while their ship was away.

This was revealed to police Thursday night by "Rocky" Naysmith, who has 60 lockers in the basement of his coffee bar at 2016 Douglas rented to navy men.

He said 40 of the lockers were rented by Ontario men and some were found to be rifled when the sailors returned from the east Thursday.

* * *

Reversing the Victoria to Vancouver trend which gave concern a few years ago, office of the secretary-manager of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture has been moved to 538 Broughton St., Victoria. C. E. S. Walls, who holds the position, used to have his office in Vancouver. The move is for closer liaison with government departments.

* * *

Motorist George G. Osborne, 1280 Park Terrace, was remanded in custody until Saturday in city court today on a charge of committing a public mischief.

He pleaded guilty to giving police information following an accident which sent them on a false trail "thereby depriving the public of police services for that period."

* * *

Warrant Officer (First Class) C. T. McDonald, of Ladysmith, is among 153 officers and men who have been awarded the Canadian Forces Decoration for 12 years' service.

The decoration is the first purely Canadian award of its type.

* * *

British Columbia's Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb will start taxation talks with Finance Minister Douglas Abbott Jan. 7 at Ottawa.

Anscomb received word from Ottawa late Thursday on the date for the meeting.

The five-year Dominion-provincial taxation agreement, under which Ottawa rents B.C.'s tax fields for a specified amount, expires in March. Legislation covering a new agreement must be ready for presentation to the Legislature next year.

Two Hospitals Boost Wages

A 16½ per cent wage increase across the board has been awarded employees at Victoria's Royal Jubilee Hospital.

And Up-Island at Ladysmith General Hospital, workers have been awarded a 15 per cent across-the-board boost.

Word of the increases was given today by the B.C. Labor Relations Board. W. T. McLaughlin, board conciliation officer, assisted in bringing about settlement of wage disputes at both centres.

Bargaining at Jubilee was conducted between the hospital board and the Royal Jubilee Hospital Employees' Association, Inc.

At Ladysmith, negotiations were between the hospital board and the Hospital Employees' Federal Union, Local 180, T.L.C.

Man Dies In Fall

Lance Phillips, 50, was killed Thursday night in a fall in the Twin-J Mine on Mount Sicker, near Duncan, R.C.M.P. reported.

Details of the accident were not revealed. Phillips' next-of-kin live in New Westminster.

Will Hear Gilliland

Annual meeting of the Victoria section of the B.C. Historical Association will be held Monday evening at 8.15 in the reading room of the Provincial Library.

The chairman, Harry Gilliland, will give his presidential address. His topic is a description of the early life of Captain Arthur E. Kennedy, who was Governor of Vancouver Island from 1864 to 1866.

Hunter Loses Last Race, Retires

To Dr. J. D. Hunter, an independent who headed the aldermanic poll in 1950, Thursday night's defeat in the mayoralty race ends a long civic career.

"I intend to retire from public life and take a good long rest," he told The Times today.

In his formal statement he congratulated Claude Harrison "on his success and I wish him good luck in the years ahead." He thanked his friends for their support at the polls.

"It has been a campaign of wide interest. It has been conducted energetically but it has been clean at all times and free from personalities of a derogatory type."

Third in the mayoralty race, Aubrey Kent, N.P.L., was a former alderman and, as in Hunter's case, Thursday night marked his second defeat for a try at the mayor's chair. He was defeated by a few votes in 1949. Dr. Hunter was defeated in 1937.

As for his future in municipal politics, he said he had not made up his mind but indicated he was through. His formal statement to the public follows:

"You have indicated on two occasions that you wished someone else to run your affairs and this in the democratic way. I am naturally disappointed. I can only extend my congratulations to Claude Harrison on his success and extend thanks to my supporters."

Heading the aldermanic poll was Ald. Waldo Skillings. "I have a deep sense of humility for the confidence you have placed in me and I will try to be worthy of that trust at all times . . . I'll go home and rest up now and look after my five boys after all the campaigning."

Ald. Margaret Christie, N.P.L.: "I am grateful to everyone who voted for me and I will try to merit the confidence they have placed in me."

Brent W. Murdoch, Independent: "I want to thank all those who have voted for me and I will carry out my pledges to the best of my ability."

Percy Scurrah, N.P.L.: "I think the next two years are important . . . I do hope we have a harmonious council. It is important that the new council work as a team."

Ald. William Pinfold, N.P.L.: "The citizens have made their choice. They have complimented me by returning me to the polls for a further two years. I will continue to give to the best of my ability to make Victoria progress."

J. Donald Smith, N.P.L.: "I feel people have placed a big responsibility on my shoulders and I'll do my best not to disappoint them."

William J. Hamilton, N.P.L.: "I have no political ambitions but will serve to the best of my ability on the police commission as a civic duty."

Ald. Millard Mooney, independent, who lost his seat by a margin of 153 votes, stated: "After serving one year on the council I am somewhat disappointed not to be re-elected, but I am sure that the people of Victoria will be well served by the representatives they have chosen."

Jack Dand Funeral Set For Saturday

Funeral services for Jack M. Dand, 41, 1524 Elford, well-known Shell Oil Company driver-salesman, who died suddenly Thursday, will be held on Saturday afternoon at 3.30, in Sands Funeral Parlor. Rev. A. E. Whitehouse will officiate at the service, to be followed by cremation at Royal Oak Burial Park.

Born and educated in Nanaimo, Mr. Dand came to Victoria eight years ago, and was known to hundreds of Vancouver Island residents. He was a member of Aerie No. 12, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

He is survived by his wife, two sons, Alan and David; four sisters, Mrs. B. Cawthorne, Nanaimo, Mrs. Thomas E. Harris, Mrs. W. E. Weeks, Victoria, Mrs. J. C. Nash, Kelowna; one brother, Thomas Dand, Vancouver.

Teamsters Will Remain With Council

Local 885 of the General Teamsters' Union intends to stay in the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council, although it believes the council has treated it unfairly.

Teamsters made their decision to stay with the T.L.C. at a meeting Thursday night. Last week, it was suggested the truckers might withdraw.

The teamsters' union is at odds with the council for refusing to take the firm of Stewart and Hudson off its "we-do-not-patronize" list.

The teamsters have a contract with the firm and maintain the establishment is fair, and its employees satisfied.

The council is supporting boycott action against the firm initiated by certain C.C.L. unions.

Search Continues For Missing Boat

The R.C.N. and R.C.A.F. were continuing the search today for a fishing vessel that went missing last Saturday.

Being sought is the Canadian Fishing Company's motor vessel Forager, which left Bowl Harbor bound for Winter Harbor with only scanty provisions on board.

Only occupant was Edward A. Pratt. The search has been going on for three days.

Sailor Knife-Slashed, Police Speed To Brawl

Second Man Held By Navy After Early Morning Fight

Celebrations of personnel from H.M.C.S. Ontario on the return to their Esquimalt base was marred by a knife fight early today that sent one sailor to hospital.

In a Naden hospital bed with a neck wound is Ordinary Seaman Stanley Lang, H.M.C.S. Ontario.

Taken in charge by the naval shore patrol was Ordinary Seaman Raymond Peterson, from the same ship.

A squad of eight city policemen and members of the shore patrol sped to the 500 block of Fisgard Street at 3.15 this morning in response to a report "a knife fight is going on."

Police report they took a sheath knife away from Peterson. They found another knife in the doorway of 548 Fisgard.

There is no indication of action to be taken by city police. Naval officials did not reveal what charges may be laid.

TIMES VOTE SERVICE BUSY

Intense interest in Thursday's civic voting was reflected in the Times office in the evening when a telephone service giving the election returns was provided.

From 7.30 until almost midnight a battery of telephones was constantly ringing. Almost invariably the main question of callers was the mayoralty contest, but several had special enquiries about the aldermanic by-election or the fate of specific candidates for council.

EXPECT RUSH

Merchants Stay Open Wednesday

Last-minute Christmas shoppers will get an assist from several city stores next week.

T. Eaton Company will remain open all day Wednesday next week. The Hudson's Bay Company will keep their doors open on Tuesday and Thursday nights until 9.

Extra store hours are "under consideration" by several furniture companies—they will wait and see what the trend is before making an announcement.

Edward Mallek, president of Eddy's Ltd., said today his store will be open Tuesday and Thursday nights next week until 9 and all day Wednesday.

He indicated that other smaller stores on lower Douglas Street will follow his move.

Maurice Humber, of Humber's Furniture Store, said the store had remained open extra hours several years ago but it was found unnecessary. He added that the plan was still being considered for this year.

Sales Tax Shares Swell Half Million

British Columbia municipalities will receive interim payments totaling $4,500,000—$500,000 more than last December—as their share of the 3 per cent sales tax, Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb announced today.

This distribution is an advance on the amount for the full year. The balance will be distributed in June, after the close of the fiscal year.

Victoria will receive $287,918, compared to last year's interim payment of $258,390; Saanich, $128,104, compared to $123,092; Oak Bay, $59,001, compared to $52,566, and Esquimalt, $25,809, compared to $23,092. Central Saanich will receive $11,818.

Death Plunge In Harbor Still Mystifies Police

Death of a 38-year-old Manitoba visitor in the Inner Harbor Thursday is still under police investigation.

Pronounced dead at Jubilee Hospital after he had been hauled from the waters opposite the Empress Hotel at 2.40 was Maurice Dujardin of Deloraine, Man.

Dr. E. C. Hart, coroner, indicated the police probe would determine if an inquest will be required.

How the man came to fall into the water is a mystery. He was with his father, Ferdinand, and two other relatives at the time.

One belief is that Dujardin leaned too far over the wall and lost his balance.

Efforts of a fire department inhalator crew failed to revive Dujardin. The body was recovered by Constable George Buckle and Jack Cleator, taxi driver, in a skiff. He had been floating face-down.

The scene was watched by hundreds of persons lining the causeway wall.

Sidney Boatman Burned In Blast

Charles Hansen, Sidney, suffered severe burns in an explosion on a gas boat Thursday. His condition was reported "fairly good" at St. Joseph's Hospital today.

Even Paint Brushes Tuck Away In Bags Nowadays!

By PENNY SAVER

Me oh my! Every time you turn around there is something new in town!

Take today, for instance. I called into one of my old reliable haunts and the inhabitants were gathered around a display table exclaiming in boisterous tones.

"What 'cha got?" I asked.

They turned around and gave me a startled look, then one of the fellows said, "How did you know we had something new in?"

"I didn't," I replied. "Just luck, I guess."

"Well, we're sure glad you're here. See what just came in."

"Good gravy, what will they think of next," was what I uttered when I saw a plastic bag for paint brushes.

That's right. You can buy three of them for 40 cents.

It seems that it isn't just any old kind of plastic, but a specially treated one that keeps brushes soft . . . without messy cleaning.

All you have to do is when you're finished painting, scrape excess paint off brush on edge of paint can and insert wet brush directly into this bag.

If you blow into the bag to open it up it makes it easier to insert. And another tip that the fellows in the store passed on to me was that if long or unusual storage is anticipated, an ounce of linseed oil or turpentine may be added to the bag with complete safety.

Here are the four easy steps to follow:

Open bag, fold down half way to drop in wet brush without smearing sides.

Squeeze out excess air and gather at top. Twist tightly several times.

Fold twisted portion over on itself.

Tie twisted fold securely with string or rubber band.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

14-Year-Old Passed Up At Dances; Asks Help

Question box:

Q. "I am 14 years old. Why is it that when I go dancing I'm never asked to dance? It's not that I am not pretty and I can dance very well. Could you please answer that for me?"

A. I think I can. If you go to dancing school or parties where the girls are in a group and the boys come over and ask them to dance, you probably do not allow yourself to be prominent enough. Perhaps you stay at the back of the group or are a little shy and do not look gay and happy.

You would not want to look brazen or too eager, but you must be where you can be seen and must look expectant and as though you thought it would be fun to dance. Be animated looking. Boys are also shy at your age and they are likely to ask the girl who makes it easy for them.

Q. "Every time I apply my makeup base it is all right on the rest of my face but my nose remains shiny. What can I do about this?"

A. Use a product designed especially for a shiny nose and chin.

Q. "I am three-quarters of an inch over five feet tall and weigh 104 pounds. My bust measures 34 inches; waist 24 inches, and hips 34 inches. Some people say I should get a little fatter but I do not think so for if I got fatter I would look even shorter. What do you think? I am 18 years old."

A. You are not much underweight if any. Your measurements are perfect. You might gain five pounds if you have fairly large bones.

Q. "I have pimples on my back and want to get rid of them.'

A. Buy a long-handled brush and use it on your back when you take your baths. Also apply a drying lotion at night. Be sure you have no focal points of poisoning: bad teeth, tonsils, constipation, etc.

Q. "In the summer I wear my hair upswept and am bothered by a scraggly hairline at the back. I do not want to shave the short hairs. Have you any suggestions?"

A. Have a beauty operator use the scissors on it periodically.

Here's a pretty salad for the holidays. Arrange a large golden canned peach half on frilly greens on salad plate. Cut pimiento into strips and lay 5 strips on peach to look like poinsetta petals. Centre with ball of cream cheese rolled in chopped roasted almonds.

TODAY'S RECIPE

RIPE OLIVE DAISIES

Pitted ripe olives, salad oil, ½ (3-ounce) package cream cheese, 1 tablespoon chopped pimiento, 1 tablespoon mayonnaise, ½ teaspoon grated onion, salt.

Drain olives and cut a cross in top of each olive with a sharp knife, without cutting all the way through. Roll in salad oil to keep shiny. Blend together cheese, pimiento, mayonnaise, onion and salt until smooth. Place small amount of cheese mixture in the centre of each olive, pressing back "petals" to resemble flowers. Serve chilled on picks.

RED CROSS NOTES

Langford — Approximately 135 guests were received at the open house and Junior Red Cross sale held in Langford School. Bunny Jacobson, Patsy Markle and John Bestwick sold fretwork and sewing articles that were made by teachers and pupils. John Knape was in charge of food. Children's work was on display and parents visited classrooms. All proceeds from the affair will aid Junior Red Cross work.

A gay, festive garnish for your holiday buffet table is made with luscious canned peach halves filled with cranberry sauce or jelly. This tastes particularly good with sliced turkey or ham, and takes only a minute to get ready with canned cling peaches and canned cranberries ready at all times.

Party At Admiral's House

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Clarence Wallace will be guests at an early-evening party tonight, when Rear-Admiral W. B. Creery and Mrs. Creery entertain at Admiral's House.

For Miss Joan Auchinvole

Mrs. Murray Davidson entertained recently at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Campbell, Beach Drive, in honor of Miss Joan Auchinvole, bride-elect of next week. A corsage of white carnations was presented to the bride-elect and her mother, Mrs. F. Auchinvole, received pink carnations. An old-fashioned lady in pink and white concealed the gifts. Refreshments were served from a table covered with a white cut-work cloth and centred with white chrysanthemums, pink carnations and white candles.

Guests included Mesdames Ed Flanagan, B. Buchan, G. Carter, Don Carter, Lorne Campbell and Misses Lois Caldwell and Gloria Davies.

Miss Auchinvole was also guest of honor at a shower given by Mrs. Gerald Carter, Lansdowne Road. Gifts were hidden in a blue umbrella. The bride-elect was presented with red carnations, en corsage, and her mother, and her fiance's mother, Mrs. H. Hurn, received mauve chrysanthemums. Present were Mesdames E. Flanagan, Murray Davidson, H. Brude, G. Carter, D. Carter, B. Hibbertson and Don Davies. Misses Doreen Olson, Gloria Davies, Ann Dundas, Norma Melville, Jacqueline LeHuquet, Jean Calvert, Loree Pollard and Lois Caldwell.

Yuletide Ball At Royal Roads

High on the younger set social calendar at Yuletide is the Christmas Ball at Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, just before cadets leave for their homes in other parts of Canada.

This ball, held on the quarter-deck in the cadet block at the college, is planned this year for next Tuesday evening.

Among honored guests will be senior officers of the three services in the western area and their wives and senior staff officers of the college and their wives.

Group Capt. J. B. Millward and Mrs. Millward and Cadet Wing Cmdr. W. H. Evans, Winnipeg, with his attractive partner, Miss Zella Jefferson, Vancouver, will receive guests.

Among those receiving "bids" from cadets for the ball are Misses Beryl Holtus, Betty Fouracres, Elizabeth Gilmore, Frances Appleton, Dardina McCormack, Moya Martin, Dawn Spencer, Ann Whittington, Anne Husband, Patricia Richardson, Margot Young and Jean Easter.

MRS. CLAUDE L. HARRISON

Retiring And Modest—Now To Enter Civic Circles

By DAWN VAN NORMAN

When Victoria's new first lady, Mrs. Claude L. Harrison, opened the door of her attractive home on Beach Drive to me at an early hour this morning, she greeted me with a warm welcoming smile that typifies her friendly personality and her sincere wish to make her guests feel at home.

She had been out in the garden. And it wasn't hard to discover that her garden, which encircles her home and was one of the first built in the Uplands, is a main interest with her.

Another hobby, shared with her husband, is making pottery.

"I haven't many pieces here," she said, "but at our home on the Malahat there is pottery of every size and shape that we have made throughout the years.

"It is a fascinating hobby," she added, "right from preparation of the ingredients to the final glazing."

With a diffident gesture Mrs. Harrison pointed to several pieces of brass and copper in her living room.

"That's another love of mine," she explained. "I think brass and copper adds to the hominess of my rooms and besides, keeping an eye open for new pieces is really interesting to me."

Numerous times while Mrs. Harrison was talking she was interrupted by the ringing of the phone as her many friends called to congratulate her on Mr. Harrison's success.

"Everyone has been wonderful," she said. "Why, we had friends phoning us from Seattle at 2 o'clock this morning."

Mrs. Harrison tells you that she used to play a lot of bridge and at one time did considerable entertaining, but her home and interests surrounding it became more important to her.

She was active with the Victoria Alpine Club, of which her husband is a past-president, and during the war was a member of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Scottish.

Now, with the civic spotlight turned upon her, Mrs. Harrison, although modest and retiring in her outlook, is ready to take her place as wife of the mayor of Victoria.

Lodge Primrose, Daughters of England No. 32, this evening, new hall, Government Street for elections. Drill practise at 7. Victoria Purple Star Lodge No. 104, L.O.B.A., Wednesday, 7, Orange Hall, 725 Courtney Street. Members to take gifts for tree.

Sook Institute Names Officers

Mrs. D. J. DeRochie was re-elected president of Sooke and North Sooke Women's Institute at a recent meeting. Mrs. G. R. Kendrew was named vice-president; Mrs. Grant Soutar, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. J. B. Wilkinson and Mrs. Wilfred Strong, directors. The president reviewed the year's work and Mrs. Soutar reported $641 on hand.

Conveners' reports were given by Mrs. James Forrest, home economics; Mrs. Gordon Nixon, health and welfare; Mrs. G. A. Acreman, citizenship; Mrs. H. P. W. Clowes, handicrafts; Mrs. DeRochie, library; Mrs. Walter Conder, sick fund and scholarship fund.

Christmas greetings and a recipe book with some recipes 200 years old were received from an adopted English institute, Layer-de-la-Haye, Colchester, Essex, Eng. In return, a food parcel will be sent overseas.

A silver engraved mug was presented to Mrs. Leslie Kidd for her infant son, Michael Ralph, and a sum of $5 was voted for St. John Ambulance.

Conveners for next year are Mrs. James Forrest, home economics; Mrs. Gordon Nixon, health and welfare; Mrs. G. A. Acreman and Mrs. C. G. Aitken, citizenship; Mrs. H. P. W. Clowes and Miss Barbara Clowes, handicrafts; Mrs. Jim Martin, social; Mrs. A. K. Feltus, sick fund; and Mrs. C. B. Schreiber, library.

DUNCAN—Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Chapman Mariatt celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary quietly at their home here last Friday. They were married in the Methodist Church, Smithville, Lincoln County, Ont., and lived there until 1904. Locating a homestead in Saskatchewan they moved west and made their home at Lloydminster. In 1943 they moved to B.C. and have resided on Gibbons Road here since 1944. They have nine children living, 22 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Women's Group Raises Money For The Solarium Milk Fund

First anniversary of the forming of a committee of women headed by Mrs. Evelyn Cooper, who have, through various activities raised $1,254.36 for the Solarium Milk Fund, was celebrated Tuesday evening at the Darwin Road home of Mr. and Mrs. Cooper.

Covers were laid for 20, the guest of honor being "Uncle Ed" Fairey, radio station CKDA, who cut the anniversary cake. He expressed his appreciation of work of the committee and gave a special vote of thanks to Mr. Copper and W. Reid.

During the evening each member of the group was presented with a gift of appreciation from Mrs. Cooper. Those present were Mesdames M. Reid, B. Nicholas, A. Eccleshall, H. Panketh, M. Hyne, E. Jarelli, M. Huddleston, E. Rhodes, W. Rathbone, M. Carver, M. Lineham, M. Spittle, W. Poole, W. Pass, L. Holland, Misses P. Reid, M. Reid, C. Wallace and E. Reid.

Entertain Members Prior To Departure

Victoria Home Economics Association recently held a Christmas party, white elephant sale and a farewell party for two outstanding members of the club at the home of Mrs. Irene McGuire. Mrs. Trevor Musto, secretary, is leaving with her husband and family at the beginning of the year for Montreal where they will make their home. Miss Yvonne Love, nutritionist at Provincial Department of Health, is traveling to Vancouver where she will teach home economics at a junior high school.

Teachers Make $460

Sum of $460 to go toward sports equipment was realized recently when the teaching staff of Salt Spring Island elementary-high school organized their annual bazaar.

Principal J. Foubister opened the affair and those in charge were Miss Olive Mouat, fancywork; Miss Reta Oulton, home cooking; Miss Doris Williamson, home produce; Kenneth Weeks, miscellaneous; Miss E. Martin, plants; Rosemary Crawford and Marlene Richards, shellcraft; A. T. Hardwick, woodwork. Tea was convened by Miss Betty Raff.

Institute Executive

Mrs. Alex Speirs was named president at meeting of Esquimalt Women's Institute. Other officers are: Mrs. Bert Thomas, first vice-president; Mrs. H. Strawson, second; Mrs. G. Jennings, secretary; Mrs. R. A. Sedger, treasurer; Mrs. A. McVie, better schools and communities; Mrs. M. Crystal, sick; Mrs. E. Drummond, social; Mrs. A. Mossop, Red Cross; Mrs. J. E. Spead, ways and means; Mesdames J. Bradley and J. Stewart, trustees.

A Christmas parcel will be sent to the adopted child at the Solarium. Mrs. J. S. Spead was received as a new member.

Allot $700—At a recent meeting of St. David's-by-the-Sea Guild, held at the home of Mrs. J. Wyper, $700 was voted to the church building fund. Mrs. S. W. Tucker, leader of the girls' auxiliary, told of their organization and program. History of the antique Celtic cross used in the church was given by Mrs. J. M. Kidson. Mrs. G. Rickard assisted the hostess with serving tea. Annual meeting and elections will be held in church hall, Jan. 8.

Nancy Hodges At Cowichan

Hon. Nancy Hodges, M.L.A., was guest speaker at meeting of the Canadian Club of Cowichan last Wednesday afternoon in the Commercial Hotel.

The large audience heard her impressions of Great Britain, praising the courage of the British people and regarded them as likely to arise again from the troubles they are experiencing. Mrs. Cyril Pitt, president welcomed Mrs. Hodges.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

Dresses For Christmas Entertaining, Many Styles

BY DAWN VAN NORMAN

Parties will be at their peak from now until the new year and naturally you will want to look your very best on festive occasions.

It is hard to predict just what you will need for the round of entertaining, it is usually so varied, but it is safe to say you will need a short cocktail dress, a filmy formal and an eye-catching afternoon dress.

Your cocktail dress can be severely simple or just the opposite, freely elaborate. Just about every dressy material you can think of or like to wear is permissable in a cocktail dress. You may choose a sheath taffeta dress, a shimmering satin ensemble, or a voluminous creation of lace or net.

For cocktails . . .

Nothing is too fussy or too plain.

The cocktail hour that is going to extend into evening dancing will give you a chance to blossom forth with a new halter neckline. A black velvet halter is a wise selection and is exquisite teamed with a full skirt of gleaming brocade.

An afternoon dress does not have the same freedom of style as a cocktail dress. It is usually in a mute-finished material brightened with costume jewelry or a colorful hanky.

For relief from the general trend though, you may like a slim two-piece suit in bemberg metallic brocade. It can be ever so attractive with a fitted jacket, slim skirt, and huge turnback velvet cuffs.

Next to plan for is the formal gown. The strapless bodice is still the most popular and it escapes in full folds of net or lace for a bouffant skirt.

The formal gown is perhaps the most luxurious ensemble of the season and it can be made even more attractive if you mist your shoulders with a stole. It is amazing the effect it creates.

Don't spoil your Christmas season worrying about your wardrobe though, you always have a good time, no matter what you choose to wear.

For dancing . . .

If you'd like to give your turkey bread crumb stuffing a delicious fruity flavor, add 1 cup coarsely chopped cooked prunes to each quart of bread crumbs. Season to taste with poultry seasoning or sage. Allow a cup to a cup and a half of stuffing for each pound of turkey.

FOR EVENING WEAR

Fine Accessories Add The Smart Touch Party Frocks

LONDON (CP).—With Christmas just around the corner, British fashion writers are full of bright advice on how to get the most out of last year's dance frock.

Under these auspices, a wide-skirted crinoline style with strapless top can be made to look new by choice of accessories.

A strapless dark-colored taffeta or velvet gown, for instance, can be worn one day with a frothy tulle or lace stole and muff, suitably pompommed or sequined. A more regal look would be given another time by a jeweled halter neckline, a matching bandeau lending a Grecian look to a back-swept hair style.

For those with a tulle or lace gown in dark shades, an interesting contrast would be provided by a gold or silver lame jacket or stole — the jacket tight-sleeved, tight-waisted, with high neckline and tiny buttons.

The younger set might choose the softer lines of pastel-shaded boleros matching a spray of flowers at the waist or hemline.

Lovely contrasts for light-colored dresses are the tiny cap-sleeved boleros of tulle patterned with jet sequins, or tight black velvet packets, sometimes plain, sometimes beaded or sequined.

A white lace bolero with matching Juliet cap, both decorated with mother-of-pearl sequins, can give a lovely sophistication to the simple, flowing taffetas of the junior miss.

A North American style becoming increasingly popular with British women is "separates" —a slinky evening skirt with interchangeable, glamorous toppieces.

A lovely "separates" choice is a skirt of white net with underslip of pink taffeta, combined with boned, strapless, pink-lined bodice of white valenciennes lace.

For instance, combine the skirt with a boned, strapless top in black taffeta crested with a narrow trimming of white lace and you have a different outfit.

Time Nips Fabled N.S. Rum Fortress

Removal Of Infamous House Ends Landmark

HALIFAX, Dec. 14 (CP)—The law has finally caught up with 113 Market Street, the impregnable "rum fortress" of Nova Scotia's roaring prohibition days.

The little frame house up the hill a few streets from the waterfront has been declared unfit for human habitation and ordered removed.

For old-timers it will be the end of an era.

In the roaring '20's, the lights burned late at 113 and the rum flowed free. On deserted bits of beach along the coast furtive little men waited as rum-laden boats nosed out of the Atlantic mists with new supplies for the booming bootlegging trade that blossomed during the life of the Nova Scotia Temperance Act.

LAW FRUSTRATED

Through it all 113 did a steady business.

Outside, the law officers listened in frustrated rage.

The steel doors and shuttered windows of 113 had defied their best efforts. Behind the high fence vicious dogs were on patrol.

On the few occasions that the police did manage to enter the house the ringleaders were missing. Usually, after a court case against the few found in the house, there was a bigger and better celebration at the "Fortress."

The day after one such court appearance was the annual police and firemen's parade. At the head of the parade was the band, in a horse-drawn wagon.

Proudly driving the wagon was the proprietor of 113 Market St.

Elaborate safeguards, including a second metal door at the top of the stairway, protected those inside the building.

But perhaps the most troublesome, to the police, was the galvanized iron chute which led down to a pile of rocks in the basement.

When police arirved those inside the house with evidence simply tossed their bottles down the chute. The bottles smashed on the rocks and the rum ran down a drain. Result: no evidence.

8 Suspended T.C.A. Pilots Back At Work

WINNIPEG, Dec. 14 (CP).—The Canadian Air Line Pilots' Association announced Thursday night its dispute with Trans-Canada Air Lines over the carrying of passengers in aircraft flight decks has been "resolved in an amicable manner" and eight suspended pilots have been returned to service.

The announcement followed meetings between the T.C.A. pilots' master executive council and representatives of the management.

The dispute arose when pilots, following an association directive, refused to carry certain passengers in the forward compartment of their planes ordinarily occupied by the crew. Five pilots in eastern Canada and three at Vancouver were suspended.

EMINENT ROLE

EALING, England (CP).—A big British film company here, planning a screen biography of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, expects to assign an English actor to the leading part.

Youngsters Back Their Grandpa

Councillor Frederick Lorne Thomson, fiery Brentwood old-timer, is running for a two-year repeat performance in Central Saanich Council. He has the ardent support of two young politicians, shown at work above. Hugh Lorne McDonald, left, is nine. David Lorne Thomson, 12, can do a job of work as a secretary. They are unofficial scrutineers for grandpa, right. (Times photo.)

Bootlegger Goes To Jail For Life

ATLANTA, Dec. 14 (AP)—Bootlegger John R. (Fat) Hardy was convicted of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment Thursday as an aftermath of 38 poison liquor deaths.

Defense Attorney J. B. McCurdy said a motion for a new trial would be filed.

The 360 - pound ex-convict, flanked by his shorter but also fat wife, received his sentence impassively.

Hardy, 44, was convicted specifically of the murder of John W. Blount, who died after drinking a lethal mixture of methyl, or wood alcohol, water and moonshine whisky.

$2,000,000,000 Field Crops May Set New Record

OTTAWA, Dec. 14 (BUP)—The gross value of Canada's principle field crops this year may exceed $2,000,000,000 to set a new record, officials of the Bureau of Stastistics said today.

The bureau reported Thursday that preliminary estimates of the gross value of the nation's 20 top crops reached the $1,856,000,000 mark.

Officials at the bureau pointed out that the preliminary estimate, based on prices during the August-November period, did not cover additional payments and price adjustments for the remainder of the crop year.

They said when the adjustments and payments were finally added to the preliminary estimates, the gross value of the nation's field crops "may well exceed the $2,000,000,000 level for the first time in history."

The previous all-time record, set last year, was $1,854,000,000.

The bureau reported that all provinces except Quebec registered gains this year as compared with last year's preliminary values, which totaled $1,483,000,000 for the nation.

The bureau added that the increases in value this year were due primarily to higher production, although there were price increases in some crops.

The heaviest producing province this year was Saskatchewan, the nation's breadbasket, where the preliminary value of the 1951 crops was $536,155,000.

Ever-Young Victor Moore Plans Broadway, TV Shows

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14 (AP)—Victor Moore, nearing his 75th birthday, is full of plans for his career, which already has spanned 54 years of entertainment history.

The veteran comedian is currently acting in his first picture in two years. He is the pivotal character in "We're Not Married," in which he plays a confused justice of the peace who has been marrying people without the proper authority.

Despite his screen inactivity, Moore has not been idle. He has appeared on many television programs and also has done stage work. His plans include a return to Broadway and his own TV show.

"I did 'On Borrowed Time' at the La Jolla Playhouse last summer," he said. "It's a wonderful play and I enjoyed doing it very much. Now I have plans to take it to Broadway, and I believe it would be my last play there."

ONLY TWO FLOPS

Moore's swan song on Broadway would mark the end of a long and distinguished career on the stage. For 18 years, he and William Gaxton starred on the big stem in such hits as "Of Thee I Sing," "Anything Goes," "Louisiana Purchase," "Leave It to Me."

"During our partnership, Billy and I had only two flops," he recalled. "Oddly enough, they were by the two men who provided our biggest hit—'Of Thee I Sing.' The shows were 'Hollywood Pinafore' by George Kaufman and a comedy by Morrie Ryskind."

The comic is also cooking up a plan to star on his own television show and has been mulling a number of formats. The one he likes best at present is about a retired mailman who runs a hotel for dogs.

All 60 will be seen in the "Student Prince" production number which will be one of 20 acts to be seen at the Victoria Memorial Arena Jan. 15 to 19.

Princess Rita Off Payroll For Walking Out On Picture

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14 (UP)—Rita Hayworth was bounced off the payroll at Columbia movie studio today for refusing to work in her comeback picture four days before it was to go before the cameras.

But the titian-haired star, a princess by virtue of her now broken marriage to Indian potentate Aly Khan, replied she was "ready and willing" to start work on the film—"as soon as I can see exactly what I am going to do."

Miss Hayworth walked out on the film Thursday, announcing she would not work until she saw a complete script of the picture, "Affair in Trinidad."

The actress said she had been "most anxious" to return to the screen since she returned from Europe and filed a divorce suit against Prince Aly in Reno, Nev. The suit still is pending.

Joan Bennett Sobs Denial Of Romance

By VIRGINIA MACPHERSON

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14 (UP)—Screen star Joan Bennett sobbed denials today that she was romantically interested in a handsome actor's agent her husband, movie producer Walter Wanger, shot because he thought he was "trying to break up my home."

The 55-year-old veteran producer shot and seriously wounded his wife's long-time agent, Jennings Lang, in a parking lot Thursday night and told police he believed the agent was romantically involved with Miss Bennett.

FACES CHARGE

Wanger was arraigned today on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to committ murder. He was held in jail Thursday night while Lang underwent surgery at a hospital.

Wanger told officers he waited in a parking lot across the street from the Beverly Hills police station for several hours until his wife drove up with Lang in the agent's car.

As they got out of the car, Wanger said, he approached them and an argument ensued. Wanger then took a .38-calibre pistol from his pocket and fired twice at Lang, hitting him once. The other bullet nicked the fender of Miss Bennett's car, which also was parked in the lot.

The beautiful 42-year-old actress was questioned at the police station and when she left her eyes were red-rimmed from weeping, her cheeks puffy and her lipstick smeared.

FINANCES BLAMED

She denied any romantic interest in Lang and blamed Wanger's financial difficulties for the incident. She said the producer of such award-winning films as "Stagecoach," "The Long Voyage Home," and "Joan of Arc," had been so upset recently that he had been "imagining all kinds of things."

The agent, 40-year-old father of two children, was given first aid by a service station attendant, who took him and Miss Bennett to Lang's personal physician. He then was rushed to the hospital.

The attendant, Sid Holtzman, was held by police as a material witness.

Lang underwent surgery for about an hour and a half, and hospital supervisor Marvin Howard indicated later that he was expected to recover.

St. Lawrence Seaway Project To Benefit Canada's Economy

In a 6,000-word brief to Parliament in Ottawa, Hon. Lionel Chevrier, minister of transport, outlined the tremendous benefits which Canadian industry will derive from the much-discussed $700,000,000 St. Lawrence seaway project. Mr. Chevrier emphasized that not only Ontario and Quebec but the entire Dominion will benefit from the vast navigation scheme. The prairies will find a substantial saving in cost of moving grain and flour to markets in eastern Canada and overseas. In addition, the seaway will permit large ocean vessels to enter the Great Lakes, thus alleviating such shortages of shipping as occurred this year. The four maritime provinces will find cost of transporting goods on the new seaway route much cheaper than rail. And the iron ore of Quebec and Labrador will find its way into world markets much faster. More shipping would travel up the St. Lawrence and through the Great Lakes locks than now passes through Suez, Panama, Kiel and the Manchester canals combined.

Concerts Set For Veterans In Hospital

A series of Christmas concerts has been scheduled for the D.V.A. hospital before Dec. 25.

First in the series was given patients Wednesday night by the Meistersingers Choir.

Victoria employees of the D.V.A. will entertain patients able to leave the hospital at their annual Christmas party tonight at the Britannia Branch Legion Hall.

Saturday, Mount View High School students will entertain at the hospital, and on Tuesday the Victoria Girls' Drill Team will perform.

On Thursday, Dec. 20, employees of Eaton's department store will sing carols in the wards and the following day patients will be visited by singing Brownies.

Rev. D. Kendell will officiate at a special Christmas service in the hospital auditorium Sunday, Dec. 23.

On Christmas Eve, senior D.V.A. officers and hospital staff will distribute gifts to the patients. The Hometowners will provide entertainment.

On Christmas Day, doctors and D.V.A. officers will serve Christmas dinner to the patients and do the dishes afterward.

PRECIOUS SCRAP

JOHANNESBURG (CP) — South African town councils have been asked to introduce regulations controlling the sale of scrap metal. Police are concerned over the increasing thefts of copper, brass and lead from houses and buildings by thieves who rush it to receivers who convert the scrap into new forms to evade investigation.

Nearly 70 per cent of the United States supply of iron ore has long been provided from open-pit mines in Minnesota.

Canadian Indicted In Smuggling Case

UTICA, N.Y., Dec. 14 (AP).—A federal grand jury today indicted four persons, including a Canadian woman, in the smuggling of $250,000 worth of diamonds.

Two of those indicted, Mrs. Adele Meppen, 41, of Brooklyn, and Abram Winnik, 44, of Brussels, Belgium, have been arrested. The other two, Janina Theresa Strokowski of Montreal, and Markus Beer of Brussels, have not been taken into custody. They are not believed to be in the U.S.

The indictments, returned to Judge Stephen W. Drennan, charge all four with smuggling and conspiracy to smuggle diamonds in the U.S.

King's Broadcast Tops Yuletide Radio Schedule

By HARRY ECCLES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The voice of King George is the outstanding feature of all the great programs arranged for Christmas Day, the one day of the year when radio has its maximum audience as families gather across the country.

Canadian listeners, with fresh memories of the tour by Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, will more than ever be keen to hear His Majesty's regular Christmas Day message this year in view of the serious lung operation he underwent Sept. 23.

The Christmas Day message by the King to his people around the world will be broadcast from the Royal study at Sandringham in Norfolk at 7 a.m. P.S.T. This will be his 14th Christmas broadcast as King. While the message is traditionally personal and non-political, he felt it necessary a year ago to point to the spectre of war and warn against any trend to appeasement. He said each individual should adopt the motto, "Whatever comes or does not come, I will not be afraid."

U.N. TO HELP

Preceding the King's speech the British Broadcasting Corporation is putting on a world-wide exchange program. The theme this year is the gift of Christmas. As it moves from Britain to Europe, to the Americas, to Australia and the Far East, to the African continent and over to the frozen rocks and valleys of Korea, speakers will bear witness to the vitality of the values enshrined in the meaning of Christmas.

With the help of the United Nations, for whom Canadians and men of many other nationalities are battling in Korea, the BBC will bring the voices of Korean children singing at a Christmas party behind the lines.

CANADIAN FEATURES

Christmas programs of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation are spread over several days, starting Dec. 22 with an account of Christmas in the Yukon, where folk started in November to parcel up gifts for relatives "on the outside."

The Trans-Canada network on Sunday night, Dec. 23, presents an adaption of several episodes from the Pickwickians' Christmas holiday at Dingley Dell, the rollicking warm-hearted story by Dickens. On Christmas Eve will be broadcast carols from historic Kings College Chapel at Cambridge.

CARILLON TO PLAY

On Christmas Day itself, the CBC opens with the BBC's world-wide program at 6 a.m. PST, followed by the King's message. Afterwards well-known Christmas tunes will be heard played by the carillon of the Peace Tower at Ottawa by Robert Donell, the federal carilloneur.

The traditional Christmas Day religious service at 11 a.m. this year is being broadcast from the chapel of the R.C.M.P. at Regina. Special Christmas features fill the rest of the day until 7 p.m. The CBC microphone tours the world to visit Canadians obliged to spend the day away from home—notably the men of the 25th Brigade in Korea and the 27th Brigade in Germany.

Music on Christmas night includes a performance of Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker Ballet" by a CBC orchestra conducted by Paul Scherman, followed by Arthur Honeggers symphonic psalm "King David," performed by the CBC's Montreal orchestra and chorus of 45 voices with solo singers.

BEDTIME STORY

by Thornton W. Burgess

Peter Rabbit sat staring down at a little black and brown furry ball in the middle of the little path. It was Woolly Bear, the only caterpillar anywhere around at this time of year. He didn't look like a caterpillar. He looked like nothing but a little black and brown furry ball, for he was rolled up very tightly. A moment before, Sammy Jay had poked him with his long, sharp bill and had rolled him over two or three times. Woolly Bear had kept rolled up. He had made no sign that he was alive. Now Sammy had flown away, but Woolly Bear still remained just a little furry ball.

Peter waited. He waited and waited. He was just about to give up, believing that Woolly Bear had been frightened to death, when the furry caterpillar unrolled. "Has he gone?" he whispered.

Peter didn't have to answer that question, for just then Sammy's harsh voice came to them so faintly that they knew he must be far away. He was. He was over in the Old Pasture. Without another word, Woolly Bear started on his way.

"That was a smart trick," said Peter Rabbit.

Woolly Bear said nothing. He kept right on giong. He seemed to be hurrying more than ever. Peter followed. Of course it was slow going for Peter. He chuckled to himself. "I suppose he thinks he's going fast," thought Peter. "Yes, sir, I suppose he thinks he's going fast."

Far in the distance Blacky the Crow began to caw. Woolly Bear stopped for an instant. Peter wondered if it was because he heard Blacky. He suspected that Woolly Bear might not fare so well should Blacky see him. But Blacky's voice came from far away. He was over in the Green Forest. Woolly Bear moved on. It seemed to Peter as if he was hurrying more than ever.

"Don't you know yet where you are going?" asked Peter.

"Yes," replied Woolly Bear. "Yes, I know where I'm going."

"Where?" cried Peter eagerly.

"To a place where I'll spend the winter," replied the hurrying caterpillar.

"And just where is that?" asked Peter.

"I don't know," replied Woolly Bear, and kept right on going.

"Then you don't know where you're going," cried Peter.

"Yes, I do," replied Woolly Bear. "I'm going to the right place to spend the winter, and when I get there, I'll know it."

"Oh," said Peter lamely.

CBC Shorter Grant Vetoed By Commons

OTTAWA, Dec. 14 (CP)—The Commons voted 55 to 28 Thursday night against a Progressive Conservative attempt to have parliamentary grants to the CBC voted annually instead of for five-year periods.

The move was sponsored by Donald Fleming (P.C.—Toronto Eglinton) while members continued clause-by-clause study of a bill, later given third and final reading, to provide annual grants of $6,250,000 to the publicly-owned C.B.C.

Revenue Minister McCann, opposing the motion, said a five-year grant would enable the C.B.C. to plan for the years ahead.

Members voted 60 to 27 against an amendment by John Diefenbaker (P.C.—Lake Centre) that would have permitted private stations to appeal to the exchequer court on questions of fact or law against rulings, orders or directions of the C.B.C. The bill simply provided for appeals on questions of law.

In moving his motion, Mr. Fleming also called for the abolition of the $2.50 annual license fee on radio receiving sets.

Stanley Knowles (C.C.F.—Winnipeg North Centre) said to hold over the head of the C.B.C. the question of the amount of money it was to have available from year to year would cramp its style.

Magistrate's Heavy-Hand Hits Drivers

Magistrate A. I. Thomas literally "threw the book" at three motorists before him in Saanich police court Thursday.

Charles A. Constable, 1019 Bank, was fined $300, or in default three months in jail. He pleaded guilty to driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol.

The magistrate imposed the stiff fine in view of a higher court judge's decision this week that magistrates have no jurisdiction to impose license suspensions under the amended section of the code relating to drinking drivers.

It cost Herbert W. Lane, Royal Oak, $35 and a one-year license suspension for dangerous driving. He pleaded guilty.

Donald C. Duncan, 710 Daisy Road, was fined $100 and seven days in jail for driving a car while his license was under suspension. The default on failure to pay the fine was an additional 15 days in jail.

Young Esquimalt Pianist Cited For Speed Of Play

VANCOUVER, Dec. 14 (CP)—A young Esquimalt pianist may be the fastest man in the world on Liszt's B Minor Sonata but the feat won't gain him admission to the keyboard hall of fame.

Harry Adaskin, professor of music at University of British Columbia, said there is "no musical significance" in the new world's record for the selection set by Robin Wood, 27, who performed recently at Wigmore Hall in London.

The professor added that the London Daily Telegraph critic who commented on Robin's justified confidence in playing the 33-minute sonata in 28 minutes obviously had his tongue in his cheek.

The London report gave the new mark to young Woods hands down. He apparently went through several ritards, slid over glissandoes, didn't even stop for ralentandos and ended with a burst of agitato.

Another pianist named Raabe set the old 33-minute Liszt record a generation ago.

ANCIENT HUNTERS

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Artistic cave carvings of 20,000 years ago were seen by Avery Shaw, curator of the New Brunswick museum's art department, on a recent visit to France. He told a meeting here the caves of Dordogne and Burgundy contained realistic representations of wild horses, reindeer and bison.

'Smugs' Grow In Canadians' Popularity

ROUSES POINT, N.Y., Dec. 14 (AP)—Americans out to grab a fast buck are latching onto the growing racket of sneaking "smugs" into Canada.

Smugs, the Canadian name for smuggled American cigarettes, are fast becoming the favorite smoke in Canada.

Even in parliament, seven out of 10 members smoke smugs, according to one member, Leon Balcer of Three Rivers, Que.

The reason is the heavy federal tax of 25.2 cents a pack for Canadian cigarettes, plus the local and provincial taxes that raise the retail price as high as 46 cents a package.

Smugs are selling at about 30 cents a pack.

This two-way incentive—illegal profits and cheaper smokes—has spurred the smuggling of untold millions of cigarettes into Canada.

Banks Prove Strongest In Mixed Market

TORONTO, Dec. 15 (CP)—Stock market prices steadied today toward the session's close after early weakness.

Banks formed the market's strongest section with a majority of fractional advances. Papers, utilities, steels, textiles, manufacturing companies and miscellaneous industrials held gains and losses in balance but constructions, refining oils and retail stores weakened. Foods and liquors dipped.

In base metals, Smelters dipped fractions after its $6 dividend discount while International Nickel eased. Quemont and Osisko edged higher.

Western oils made little headway. Calgary & Edmonton, Home, Acme Gas and Calmont strengthened while General Pacific, Sapphire and Western Leaseholds weakened.

Senior golds were mixed. Hollinger, McIntyre, Teck Hughes and Wright-Hargreaves pushed upward while Dome, Kerr Addison, Lakeshore and Malartic dipped. Secondary issues posted a majority of penny advances.

Oils Advance

VANCOUVER, Dec. 14—The market was slightly stronger today although activity was still below normal.

Anglo-Canadian again proved a sturdy feature among mines jumping 10 cents to 8.90. Commonwealth was also in demand at 3.40, up 10 cents; Del Rio at 1.74, up 4 cents, and Superior at 1.45, up 4 cents.

Calmont 1.52; Calvan 5.55, Britalta 4.85 were unchanged but York declined a penny at .44 and Royal Canadian ½ cent at 19½.

Mines were generally higher. Estella 2.24, up 4 cents; Pacific Nickel .42, up 3 cents and Silbak .65, up 1 cent. Premier Border dipped 2 cents at .32½.

Alberta Distillers was active around 3.15 in the industrial section.

Steamships Higher

MONTREAL, Dec. 14 (CP).—Advances and declines about held even; changes were mostly fractional.

Papers and carriers were mixed while banks were mainly unchanged. Industrials, utilities and steels were slightly firmer. Beverages, senior metals and senior oils eased a trifle.

Fractional losers included Gypsum, Consolidated Paper, Canadian Western Lumber, Price Brothers, Abitibi, National Breweries, Noranda and International Nickel.

Featured was Canada Steamship, up 1 point at 51, while fractionally higher were B.C. Forest, Imperial Tobacco, Page Hersey, St. Lawrence Corporation, Brown, Bell, Aluminum, Hudson Bay Mining, Hamilton Bridge, Massey-Harris, Ford "A" and Dosco.

Airlines Lead

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP).—There was a steady tone today in the stock market with good support supplied by air lines and utilities.

Steels were backward, and merchandising issues had trouble from time to time. Radio television issues and copper mining shares hugged the downside.

International Business Machines gained 6 points at 218 at one time, and up a point or more during the day were the Milwaukee Road, Firestone, Allied Chemical, Gulf Oil and Trans-World Airlines.

Among outstanding losers were counted R. H. Macy, General American Investors, Du Pont and Raynolds Metals.

Canadian issues were mixed. Hiram Walker advanced ⅜ and International Nickel gained ¼. Dome Mines dropped ¼, Canadian Pacific and Distillers Seagram were unchanged.

Good London Demand

LONDON, Dec. 14 (Reuters)—A desire to close short positions ahead of the week-end gave buoyancy today to the stock exchange.

There was a good demand for all first-grade issues. Advances in gilt-edged were small but the various industrial groups and the miscellaneous leaders including Dunlops, Imperial Chemicals and Pinchin Johnston registered gains ranging between 6d and 1s.

Canadian Eagle issues were prominent and strong among oils.

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP)—Stock closings: Babcock & Wilcox 70s 9d, Boots Pure Drug 23s 3d, Canadian Pacific $72¼, Central Mining £2, Consolidated Gold Fields 56s 7½d, Courtaulds 47s 6d, Hudson's Bay Co. 161s 3d, Imperial Chemical 48s 6, Imperial Tobacco 95s 7½d, Metal Box 49s, Mexican Eagle 26s, Rand Mines 131s 3d.

Bonds: British 2½ per cent Consols £62, British 3½ per cent War Loans £80⅛, British Fundings 4s 1960-1990 £99⅛.

Hudson Bay Well Gives Good Test

By C. V. MYERS

Hudson Bay Bashaw 32A-13, quarter of a mile east of the Bashaw D-3 discovery, gives indications of becoming the fourth producer for the field.

With D-3 contact at 5,794 test 5,794-5,805 gave gas at 1,450,000 cubic feet and a recovery of 30 feet oil, 120 feet oil cut mud.

Bashaw drillers total four. American Leduc Bashaw No. 3 is drilling at 5,552, west offset to the discovery. Cal. Standard Bashaw No. 1, a north offset to the discovery, is drilling at 5,080. Stanolind Bashaw, half a mile south and quarter of a mile west of the discovery, is repairing at 4,614. Security Mitmore Calvan 13-19 is preparing to spud two miles south and a quarter mile west of the discovery.

GAS WELL SHARED

Leduc Consolidated Chancellor No. 1, 40 miles northwest of the Countess gas field and 50 miles east of Calgary, found gas in the lower cretaceous. Interval 4,706-16 yielded gas at 5,500,000 cubic feet daily through a half-inch choke and a recovery of two feet of naptha. The well is scheduled as a Devonian test.

A 5,700-acre Socony Vacuum farmout, the project is shared: Leduce Consolidated 20 per cent, Mill City 20 per cent, Mercury and Royal Canadian each 17½ per cent, High Crest Petroleums 5 per cent and others 20 per cent.

Homestead and North Canadian are moving in for a three-quarter-mile step-out venture at Armena. The field now has 11 producers, seven North Canadian and Homestead of which five have been placed on steady production; Central Leduc three, and Phillips Petroleums one. A second Phillips' well is now at the pay sand and is believed to constitute the 12th producer for the field.

Montana Power got another gasser for its Anaconda Copper gas supply Wednesday when McColl Union No. 11A-25-5-6, in the southeast corner of Alberta, tested 2,570-85 and got gas at 3,450,000 cubic feet daily and recovery of 70 feet of muddy water. Lower intervals yielded water.

Roof Falls In At Stock Exchange

MONTREAL, Dec. 14 (CP).—The roof fell in at the Montreal Stock Exchange today. Buyers moved into the curb market side.

A big area of plaster caved in around 7 a.m. EST, three hours before business was to start. Dealers crowded to the curb's smaller trading post.

Repairs are expected to be completed before tomorrow's short session.

Early Closing

The New York, Toronto and Montreal stock exchanges will close early on Christmas Eve. The New York close down will be 1 p.m. while the Canadians finish at noon (E.S.T.)

Canada Pays Record Dividends In 1952

By HARRY YOUNG, Times Business Editor

With payments of $40,000,000 to its shareholders, International Nickel Co. was Canada's greatest single dividend payer in 1951—a year in which all disbursement records by Canadian companies were shattered.

Young

Total dividends paid by Canadian companies during the year were $533,495,611, according to J. R. Timmins & Co. of Toronto. This was an increase for the fifth year in succession, and topped the 1950 record by over $60,000,000.

The following figures show how Canadian dividends have grown in the past 10 years:

1941	$285,659,206
1942	271,539,985
1943	265,963,001
1944	267,273,450
1945	270,908,059
1946	286,121,062
1947	333,200,864
1948	392,406,770
1949	427,072,307
1950	472,934,546
1951	533,495,611

The 1951 dividends were higher in all sections. Industrials paid $279,254,913 (against $256,699,070 in 1950); mines paid $141,530,407 (against $119,210,973); utilities $78,544,607 (against $68,173,467); and institutions and trusts $34,165,684 (against $28,851,036).

It should be noted, however, that while the increased distributions are considerable they are practically in line with the declining purchasing value of the dollar.

President Robert Rae of the Dominion Bank declares himself hopeful of a correction of the declining dollar value following the decision of the International Monetary Fund's action last September in freeing member countries from obligations not to sell gold in world markets at premium prices.

"This act may some day be recognized as one of the turning points in financial history," he told Dominion Bank shareholders Wednesday.

* * *

"It would appear that future bond issues may have to bear 4½ per cent interest in order to obtain a bond at or near par," said R. B. Wilson, chairman of the Oak Bay Finance Committee in his report for 1951. Wilson was referring to the fact that the last price Oak Bay Municipality received was $92.06 for a 3½ per cent bond.

Defense orders already in hand together with other contracts pending will keep the works of Canadian Car and Foundry Co. Ltd. going at full capacity for the whole of 1952, says V. M. Drury, president, in a report to shareholders.

"The present orders on the books for rolling stock should keep the car plants in full operation through 1952; the defense orders will keep the aircraft and machine shop division wholly occupied beyond 1952, and the foundry division has capacity work on order and in process," he said.

Drury noted that in the latter months of this year the delivery of materials greatly improved and allowed production to be stepped up.

Canada Car increased its earnings during the year from $1.96 to $2.41 per common share.

LONDON THINKS BANK OF ENGLAND WILL UNPEG POUND

LONDON, Dec. 4 (Reuters).—Widespread rumors that the pound sterling is to be freed from fixed exchange rates sent shares rising on the London Stock Exchange today.

There were reports it would be left to find its own level, at present fixed at $2.80 in terms of United States currency.

The treasury denied there was to be any change in the pound's value.

The Bank of England announced a press conference for tomorrow morning. Spokesmen gave no indication of the reason beyond saying: "It is important."

Dryden Paper Company, Limited

(Incorporated under the laws of Canada)

5¼% DEBENTURES

To be dated December 1, 1951 — To mature December 1, 1966

Principal and semi-annual interest (June 1 and December 1) payable in lawful money of Canada at any branch in Canada of the Company's bankers. Definitive Debentures may be in the form of coupon Debentures registerable as to principal only in the denominations of $1,000 and $500. Redeemable at the option of the Company on at least 30 days' notice, in whole or in part at any time or in part from time to time, at 104% of the principal amount thereof if redeemed on or before December 1, 1954; thereafter at 103% of the principal amount thereof if redeemed on or before December 1, 1957; thereafter at 102% of the principal amount thereof if redeemed on or before December 1, 1960; thereafter at 101% of the principal amount thereof if redeemed on or before December 1, 1963; and thereafter at 100½% of the principal amount thereof if redeemed prior to maturity; together in each case with interest on said principal amount accrued and unpaid to the date fixed for redemption.

The Trust Indenture will provide for an annual Sinking Fund payment commencing December 1, 1954, sufficient in amount to retire $173,000 principal amount of 5¼% Debentures annually. Any such Sinking Fund liability may be satisfied by delivery to the Trustee of the 5¼% Debentures to be taken at par. The annual Sinking Fund payments together with the redemption of $174,000 principal amount at maturity will, it is estimated, retire the entire issue.

Trustee: Montreal Trust Company

In the opinion of Counsel, companies registered under The Canadian and British Insurance Companies Act, 1932 (Canada), as amended, may, without availing themselves for that purpose of the provisions of sub-section 4 of section 60 of said Act, invest their funds, or any portion thereof, in these Debentures.

We offer, as principals, the 5¼% Debentures, subject to prior sale and allotment, if, as and when the Debentures have been issued and received by us, and subject to the approval of all legal matters on behalf of the Company by E. R. Parkins, K.C., Montreal, Quebec, who will also act for us.

PRICE: 98 AND ACCRUED INTEREST, TO YIELD 5.44%

It is expected that Interim or Definitive Debentures or Trustee's Interim Certificates will be ready for delivery on or about Jan. 3, 1952.

A Prospectus, copy of which has been filed with the Secretary of State of Canada in accordance with the provisions of The Companies' Act, 1934, will be furnished upon request.

BRIDGE LESSON — by Oswald Jacoby

There is a certain spot on the ceiling that some bridge players look at when they don't know what to do. Some players just look up at the ceiling with a vacant stare, and others find it useful to scratch their heads or rub their chins at the same time.

These are very fine things to know, to be sure, but it's even better to know the right way to play a hand. Today's hand shows the difference.

West opened the ten of diamonds, East covered with the jack and South won in his hand with the king. One glance showed declarer that he needed three club tricks to make his contract, since he could make exactly two tricks in each of the other suits.

South therefore led a club to dummy's ace and returned a low club from the dummy. East quite properly played his low club and South had to guess whether to play the queen or the eight of clubs from his hand.

South thought about it for a second or two and then looked up at the ceiling. This didn't help him, for he came out of his huddle by finessing the eight of clubs from his hand. This allowed West to win with the jack, which meant that declarer could win only two club tricks—not enough for his contract.

There is a standard method of absolutely infallible, but it does eliminate guesswork.

Opening lead—♦ 10

South must begin the clubs by leading the eight and letting it ride for a finesse. If this finesse loses to the king, there is no further problem. If it loses to the jack, South returns to his hand and finesses through West a second time, either by leading the nine or the queen.

This method assures three tricks in the suit if the honors are divided or if West has both the king and jack. It fails only if East has both king and jack. The odds are 3 to 1 that three tricks will be developed—and there is no need to guess or consult a crystal ball.

IN TUNE WITH THE TIMES

WITH TOMMIE WALTERS

When television made its debut some years back many persons "in the know" freely predicted that, for the most part, radio's leading actors and supporting players had little left to look forward to save oblivion. Video, these "experts" claimed would create its own talent reservoir and that the demands of TV could not be met by radio people. So what's happening? TV remains adamant, and continues to ignore many excellent radio people. They in turn, simply have gone to the movie studios to prove they can act before cameras as well as before mikes alone. What's more, the studios appear to be liking the arrangement.

Out of 33 pictures in production at Hollywood studios this week, 17 feature or star 28 radio people, and one of them, "The Twonkey," has no less than 13 radio actors out of a total cast of 151. 20th Century has Everett Sloane in "The Way of the Gaucho" and Joseph DeSantis and Ed Begley in "Deadline U.S.A." Universal-International has Gerald Mohr and Jeff Chandler in "Red Ball Express," Whitfield Connor in "Scarlet Angel" and Joe Cotten in "Untamed." Raymond Burr and Dan Seymour are in Warner's "Mara Maru," Herb Vigran is in Paramount's "Famous" and RKO has Charles McGraw in "The Korean Story," John Dehner in "Desert Passage," and Dan O'Herliny in "Sword of Venus." At the independents—Sheldon Leonard in "Decision," John McIntyre in "Glory Alley," "The Twonkey" has Hans Conreid, Gloria Blondell, Janet Warren, Ed Max, Al Jarvis, Wheeler & Rourke, Jim Hawthorne, Bob Jellison, Norman Field, Alice Backes, Lenore Kingston, Byron Kane and Florence Ravenel. TV directors might like to know this roster does not include such stars as Dennis Day, Abbott & Costello, Bing Crosby or Carolina Cotton, also from radio and in films this week.

★ ★ ★

TONIGHT'S BEST . . . "Ford Theatre" at 6 with another Edith Wharton novel, "The Old Maid," on CJOR-CJVI. Boxing on "Cavalcade of Sport" at 7 over same stations and KJR. Toronto Pops" at 7.30 on CBR. "Suspense" at 8.30 on CJOR and CJVI, or Ian Thorne's religious script, "The Boy Who Laughed at God" on "Vancouver Theatre" over CBR. "Treasure Chest" at 9 on CKDA and "P.C.H.L. Hockey" at 9.45 on CJVI.

Mother Tells Jury How Child Drowned

DUNCAN—A mother on Thursday told Coroner A. E. Green of her futile efforts to rescue her child after the little girl had fallen into a well.

The coroner returned a verdict of accidental death after hearing all the circumstances at an inquiry into the death of Doreen Hollings, 5, daughter of Mrs. Margaret L. Hollings. She was drowned Tuesday.

Mrs. Hollings lowered a ladder into the well but was unable to find the child. The body was subsequently recovered by volunteer firemen.

Weird Humor Fools Gullible Grocers

A practical joker raised the hopes of city grocery store operators for a time Thursday with a report that a new shipment of Jap oranges had arrived.

The joker, police learned, telephoned several stores telling them there was a shipment of the oranges at the A. P. Slade warehouse and that they were "very cheap."

The grocery men were left a telephone number to call if they wished to place orders. It was subsequently found the number belonged to a U-drive firm.

Olympic Mat Coach May Be Picked Today

Here's a cinch set-up for anyone who knows wrestling like the palm of his hand and likes to travel.

At a Vancouver meeting of B.C. wrestlers today, one man is going to be picked to coach Canada's grappling entries in the Olympic Games at Helsinki in 1952.

Local wrestling promoter Nick Harris has been asked to send someone from Victoria to attend the meeting along with 16 others from various parts of the province. Nick has given the matter much thought and finally came up with Lionel Speller.

Speller has been around wrestling circles quite a while and knows the game inside out. But whether or not he wants the job is entirely up to himself.

The candidate will be nominated at the Western Sport Centre in Vancouver.

Turner Wins

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 14 (CP)—Jackie Turner, veteran Vancouver bantamweight starting on the comeback trail, won a six-round decision over Jerry Strutz of Spokane.

In the main event, Tacoma heavy Jess Hall stopped big Bill Peterson of Chicago in slightly less than three rounds.

LIQUOR BAN STICKS ON NATIVE INDIANS

Beer Parlors Only Open To Tribes In B.C.; Government Reluctant To Define Club Rights

British Columbia Indians still are prohibited from buying liquor in government liquor stores.

The change in regulations of the Indian Act, announced Wednesday, only allows Indians to drink in beer parlors. All other regulations regarding the drinking habits of Indians remain unchanged, provincial government officials explained today.

For example, a white man still can't give an Indian a drink in his home or any other place except in a beer parlor. The act now allows native Indians to consume beer on licensed premises, but if they become intoxicated they can still be prosecuted under the Indian Act.

There seems some doubt as to whether Indians can drink in liquor clubs. Officials aren't clear on the interpretation of this section and declined to make a definite statement.

Indians will not be allowed to buy beer at a beer parlor to take out, and consequently the regulation banning it on reservations still stands.

B.C. SECOND TO ACT

B.C. became the second Canadian province to take advantage of amendments to the Federal Indian Act which gave the province the right to apply for the proclamation needed to implement tavern privileges to Indians. Prince Edward Island was the first.

In this province, the new regulation is effective Saturday. Until then, only Indians who have foresworn their particular privileges as wards of the government and have become full Canadian citizens will be able to enter beer parlors.

NOT HAPPY

Meanwhile, some Indians are not happy about the new legislation.

Andy Paull of North Vancouver, president of the North American Indian Brotherhood, representing Canadian Indians, said the new ruling is a trap because the Indian Act still states Indians can't be drunk on reservations.

"How is the Indian to sober up after drinking on licensed premises which are near the reservation?" he asked. "Indians should have all privileges under B.C. liquor laws."

Chief Thunderbird, well-known wrestler, said the new ruling will start friction by making Indians feel inferior to white men.

Nun Describes Red Chinese Terror Trial

QUEBEC, Dec. 14 (CP)—An elderly Canadian nun who returned recently from 50 years of missionary work in China described in an interview Thursday what happens at Communist public trials.

Rev. Mother St. Blaise, now retired at the Quebec City Mother House of Franciscan nuns, told how she and 24 of her companions were informed by official messenger in January, 1950, that Communist officials would visit their mission in Shangsa, Hopeh province.

They came the next day, ordered the chapel cleared of religious objects in two hours, she said.

Pictures of Red army officers replaced religious images. A large portrait of Stalin was placed on the main altar where the crucifix stood.

The nuns were ordered to appear in the transformed chapel the following evening for a "public meeting."

Mother St. Blaise, who was the first woman missionary of her order to set foot in China in 1902, said these Communists "had already taken over direction of our hospital, an event that was marked by a public demonstration and band music.

"The next day, flanked by two soldiers, we were led into the chapel to stand trial.

"Each one of our employees had been ordered to accuse us publicly of the most revolting crimes, strangling children, killing women on the operating table. Our medical superintendent renounced our religion publicly.

"We stood for five hours, facing the crowd, without being allowed to answer. When the judge decided there was enough 'evidence,' sentence was pronounced.

"'Since we have no power to waste to punish such crimes,' he said, 'You will simply be left to starve to death.'

"We were escorted back to the convent where our goods were confiscated and we were left with a sack of flour and a bit of oil."

Mother St. Blaise said that without the help of local Chinese women, the group would have died of starvation. One night they escaped to a Carmelite convent at Chungking. Finally, she was allowed to leave the country but it took five months because of difficulties.

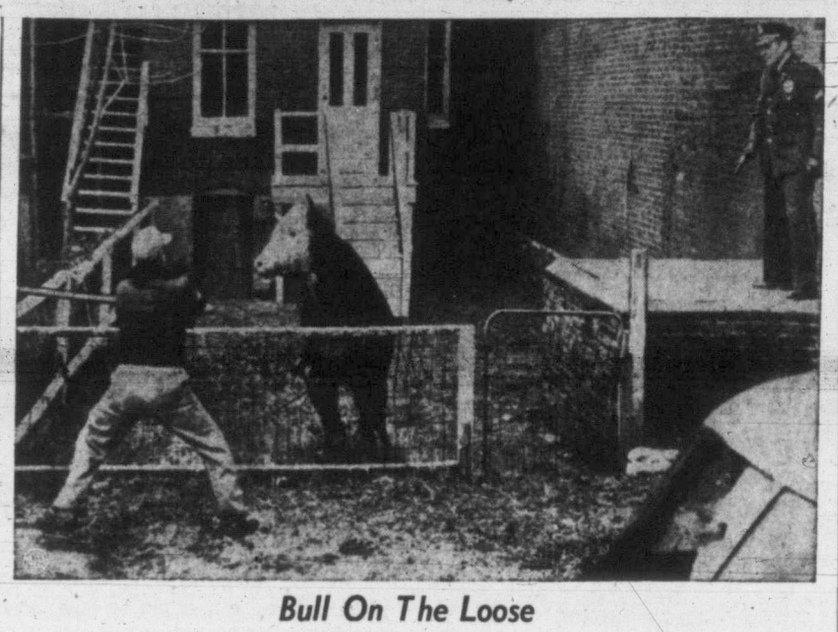
"I guess I waited too long before returning," she said, "now I can't trace any relatives. I even had to be introduced to the members of my own order in the convent here. I didn't know anybody. So many things can happen in a half-century."

Ancient Windows Village Problem

MERTON, Norfolk, Eng. (CP)—Stained glass found in an old oak chest in the loft of a farm building on Lord Walsingham's estate is setting a problem for the district.

The glass, composing three canopies—the shaped upper portions of ecclesiastical windows—and five other pieces, was found by workmen who came to demolish the building. The Vicar of Dereham, Rev. J. Noel Boston, says that the pitting and coloring of the glass proves it to be of mediaeval origin.

No. 1 mystery—no one can figure out where it belonged. It was first though to have come from the parish church when Lord Walsingham's grandfather installed a memorial window. But the measurements are wrong and so far no church in the district has been found with windows of the right size.



Bull On The Loose

A bull which escaped from a packing house pen and roamed St. Louis streets for seven hours is cornered in backyard of a home. A stock handler, armed with a stick, tries to keep animal in check as policeman with drawn revolver looks on. Bull plunged through fence and was killed by police bullets.

Marooned In B.C. Train, 13 Safe

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. Dec. 14 (CP)—A rescue train today picked up 13 persons, including women and children, marooned since Monday by slides in the Skeena Canyon.

The train took the group from Kwinitsa, 45 miles east of here, to Terrace, 50 miles farther east.

First train into this northern port since Monday was scheduled to arrive last night after Canadian National Railways crews had spent three days clearing rock and mud slides and filling washouts.

Four bulldozers still were clearing the highway east of here but L. E. Smith, public works engineer, said the job would not be completed until well into next week.

Highway traffic has been able to get only as far west as Terrace. At least three highway bridges were believed washed out. High water which flooded the road left miles of highway strewn with logs and debris.

The slides and flooding were caused by a violent rainstorm Monday.

Author Thorne Drama On Air In CBC Show

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has accepted a number of new plays from city writer-producer Ian Thorne.

Thorne, former instructor in drama, literature and English at Qualicum College, will have his "The Boy Who Laughed at God" presented Friday night at 8.30 over the CBC's western and mid-eastern network.

His "Room 504" series will be aired over a six-week period on the CBC Dominion network early in the New Year.

The British-born writer has been appointed director of the Victoria College production "You Can't Take It With You" and of Qualicum College's "Macbeth" which will be produced in the Open Air Theatre at Qualicum next May.

He received high praise for the staging of "Caesar" early this year at the college.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE CONTROL IS ABOLISHED

MAYOR-ELECT CLAUDE L. HARRISON

Harrison Stays One Term Only

Mayor-Elect Declares His First Intention To Put City Back 'On Sound Foundation'

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

Claude L. Harrison, elected as Victoria's new mayor by a record turnout of voters Thursday, said today he has no intention of seeking more than one term as the city's chief magistrate.

He said he ran for the two-year term of office "simply to get the city back on a sound foundation."

First matters to receive his attention, he said, will be the workings of the city manager system, department heads at City Hall, his proposed citizens' forum and the Memorial Arena.

Harrison won the mayoralty, to succeed retiring Mayor Percy George with 3,828 votes out of the record 10,405 cast. Second in the polling was Dr. J. D. Hunter with 3,079, third M. Aubery Kent with 2,683 and fourth Harry Haigh with 748.

It was the keenest mayoralty race Victorians have had for 20 years.

The vote total of 10,405 compared with 9,732 in the 1949 mayoralty race. The actual vote was a new record, but the percentage of eligible voters who marked ballots was 53.04 per cent, down slightly from the 53.21 per cent of 1949.

While choosing a newcomer to civic politics as mayor, the voters endorsed four of the sitting aldermen for fresh terms, including the full slate offered by the Non-Partisan League for these and other offices.

Only upset in the aldermanic field was the defeat of Ald. Millard Mooney. Brent Murdoch was one of two newcomers to win, placing third as an independent.

Neck-And-Neck Contest

Four incumbents held their posts, with Ald. Waldo Skillings, N.P.L., heading the polls, followed closely by Ald. Margaret Christie, N.P.L., Ald. Percy Scurrah, N.P.L., and Ald. William Pinfold, N.P.L. were neck and neck most of the night with Pinfold taking last spot, 153 votes ahead of Mooney.

Non-Partisan League had success with all but the mayoral candidate. To newcomer William J. Hamilton, N.P.L., went the only landslide vote of the night. He had 7,914 votes for the one seat on police commission against Charles de Lure's 1,850.

J. Donald Smith, another N.P.L. candidate, took a one-year seat on council, with 5,332 votes against William H. Williams' 4,266.

Interviewed at his home today Mayor-Elect Harrison, in between answering telephone congratulations from near and far, said his program would be carried out item by item.

"You can't do everything at once," he laughed. "I feel we will get complete co-operation on city council."

Of the city manager system he said:

"We've certainly got to try the scheme out properly, but they've got to show me or out it goes. That's absolute. If it doesn't work I will bring it up before the people at the first opportunity."

Wants City's Men On Job

On department heads: "We will find if they are thoroughly competent. If so, we will save money on experts. Let our own people do the work. Department heads are responsible to the manager. Things must be done right . . . there'll be no pussyfooting, no humbug."

There will be a study of employees' work. Competent employees will have nothing to fear, he said.

"There's going to be no cutting of staff. . . . I'm just going to make sure the people get value for their money."

On the arena: "We must find out if it is safe. Prime purpose is to see that there is not going to be a calamity there. It's only common sense to find out if it's safe. We must know.

"Within a month of taking office I will hold the first Citizens' Forum in Lougheed's on Douglas Street, where I had my last election meeting," said Harrison.

To Ald. Margaret Christie goes the honor again of being the only woman on council. Two other feminine contenders were unsuccessful.

Ald. Millard Mooney may have lost out in the shuffle but he says he's game to try again.

"It was my maiden voyage into politics and I'll admit I didn't have my usual appetite the last few days," commented J. Donald Smith.

Abbott Makes Surprise Announcement To House

OTTAWA, Dec. 14 (CP).—Finance Minister Abbott announced today the abolition of foreign exchange control.

He told the Commons in a surprise announcement that the government has amended the control regulations "so as to exempt all classes of transaction" from permit requirements.

Tabling a copy of the government order, he said:

"Its general effect is that foreign exchange control has been abolished in Canada."

Legislation to cover this step will be brought down at the spring session of Parliament.

This legislation will repeal the Foreign Exchange Control Act and substitute a new exchange fund act drafted along the same general lines as those parts of the control act which deal with the operation of the government's exchange fund.

Meanwhile, the exchange fund, which holds Canada's official reserves of gold and foreign currencies, will continue in operation under the Exchange Control Act and will be available "to contribute to orderly conditions and as a factor of stability" in the exchange market.

"It will have far-reaching implications," said a Victoria banker. "It will mean for the first time since September, 1939, Canadian citizens will be able to move their capital where they like, so far as Canadian authority is concerned."

The main control in the past few years has been in terms of U.S. currency, he said, and he pointed out that the abolition of control will make it easier to do business between Canada and the United States.

Under the prevailing conditions it is impossible to transfer Canadian dollars into U.S. for articles which are labelled luxuries and which have been paid in U.S. dollars.

"From the banker's point of view it is happy news. It will do away with the multiplicity of forms and permits which we have had to handle for the government," he said.

Canadian citizens are now to be in line with U.S. citizens who have had no controls in the movement of their money to other countries.

Particularly affected by the change will be people who want to live in the United States but at present are prevented from converting their Canadian dollars into U.S. currency.

It will also make it easier for people with cash to take jobs in the United States and transferring all their belongings along with them.

Canadians will no longer have to account to the Canadian government for any U.S. dollars they may hold.

Civil Servants Get Pay Boost

Ottawa Announces Healthy Pay Boosts For All Employees; Retroactive To Dec. 1

OTTAWA, Dec. 14 (CP).—A broad series of pay, salary and allowance increases for Canada's armed forces, the civil service and the R.C.M.P. was announced in the Commons today by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

The raises, ranging from about 14 per cent, all are retroactive to Dec. 1.

The last general adjustment in rates of pay for government employees was a year ago.

The general average effect of the increase will be to add between eight and nine per cent to the governments payroll.

The armed service increases include substantial boosts in trades pay for qualified warrant officers, non-commissioned officers and men. In addition, fully-trained infantrymen and other trained combat soldiers now will draw a specialist's pay of $6 a month.

LOWER RANKS

For the lowest ranks—privates, seamen and aircraftmen—the new scales provide monthly increases in basic pay of $8 and in subsistence allowance of $4. These range up to $13 basic and $7 subsistence for the highest non-commissioned rank.

For officers, there are increases ranging from $8 a month to $95 in basic pay, depending on rank, and from $4 to $30 for subsistence. The outfit allowance for newly-commissioned officers jumps to $375 from $250.

Under the new rates a private fully trained will receive $152 monthly, including subsistence allowance, compared with $140; a sergeant $201, compared with $186; a lieutenant $299, compared with $274; a major $448, compared with $410, and a colonel $694, compared with $636. Equivalent ranks in the air force and navy will receive similar pay.

For the R.C.M.P., the increases range from $15 a month for third-class constables, who have completed training, to $30 for sergeants and staff sergeants.

Increases for commissioned R.C.M.P. officers range from $35 for sub-inspectors to $66 in the rank for deputy commissioner.

The annual pay of a third-class constable after completion of training goes up to $2,220 from $2,040 for an annual raise of $180.

EXCEPTIONS

Dealing with the civil service, St. Laurent said the increases go to all classes with the following exceptions:

1. The salaries of civil servants in the higher brackets will be reviewed individually.

2. Where it is clear that current civil service salary rates already are closely in line with rates being paid by good private employers, the civil service commission will consider whether and to what extent it would be proper to recommend specific increases.

3. Where the salaries paid in any class have been adjusted since last December, a lesser increase than that applied generally will be authorized.

4. The proposed increases will apply only to classified employees. The rates of pay of prevailing rates employees—those paid by the hour—are governed by the prevailing rates in similar private employment.

Trans-Mountain Awarded Oil Pipe Line To Coast

OTTAWA, Dec. 14 (CP) — The Board of Transport Commissioners today awarded Trans-Mountain Oil Pipe Line Company the franchise for a line to carry oil from Alberta to the Pacific Coast.

The $82,000,000 pipe line will run from Edmonton to Vancouver by way of the Yellowhead Pass in the northern Rockies, following an all-Canadian route.

Trans-Mountain was one of five companies that asked the board for permission to pump oil from Alberta to Vancouver. Three withdrew, and the only remaining applicant company was the Champion Pipe Line Corporation.

The board heard evidence in the application only on Monday and its decision today was one of the fastest on record in a major case. The company had indicated that if it had got a favorable verdict, it would start construction next spring and have the line completed by late 1953.

The 24-inch pipeline, 695 miles long, would carry 37,500 barrels of crude oil a day at the outset and this would be stepped up later to 75,000 barrels a day.

Th' nine thousand Victorians who didn't vote yestiddy will natcherly not want t' voice any criticism of civic affairs durin' the comin' year.

FINAL BULLETINS

Cut Rail Rates On Lumber

VANCOUVER, Dec. 14 (CP)—Railway freight rates on lumber moving from Vancouver to eastern Canada will be cut Saturday, the British Columbia Manufacturers' Association said today.

The association said it had been advised by the railways they will lower rates about 10 cents per 100 pounds on lumber shipments from Vancouver to Toronto, 12½ cents to Montreal, 19½ cents to Saint John, N.B., and 23½ cents to Sydney, N.S.

Police Foil Suspected Plot

VANCOUVER, Dec. 14 (CP)—Policemen with drawn guns today foiled a suspected bank hold-up plot when they captured three armed men in a stolen car.

Arrest of the three suspects—no charges have yet been laid—and confiscation of two guns found in the stolen car occurred just as the banks were opening for business. Two constables en route to traffic court spotted the stolen auto.

Injured Pilot Rescued, Evacuated

CALGARY, Dec. 14 (CP)—An injured R.C.A.F. pilot was evacuated by air to Calgary about 1.30 p.m. MST today after being rescued from the wreckage of his crashed aircraft 7,000 feet up a mountain side southwest of here.

Royals Cancel Exhibition Game

NANAIMO, B.C., Dec. 14 (CP)—New Westminster Royals today canceled an exhibition game with Nanaimo Clippers because they don't want to get involved in the row between Nanaimo and Victoria Cougars.

Doug Grimston, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said in a letter to Harry Porter, Nanaimo Arena manager, that Royals called off the game, scheduled for Dec. 20, because a member of their league might be sued by Nanaimo.

SUMNER T. PIKE RESIGNS POST ON U.S. ATOMIC COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (UP)—Sumner T. Pike resigned today as a member of the Atomic Energy Commission, effective Saturday.

President Truman accepted the resignation with "utmost regret."

Pike, the sole remaining original member of the A.E.C., has served on the commission for five years. He formerly was a member of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Pike's brief letter to Mr. Truman gave no reason for the resignation.
